Adviser Teacher Friend

As an adviser to Student Council our dedicatee has always revealed a strong devotion to and interest in all student activities. A constant attendant at plays, concerts, games and other school functions, she was instrumental in arranging Burlington High School's first Humanities Lecture Series and in establishing the school's first Honors History course.

Well known for her demanding and stimulating classes, she is an inspiring teacher who willingly devotes countless hours to study, to careful preparation, and to painstaking correction of student research.

Any student who approaches her with a question finds her ready to listen and to talk. She is respected as an individual; her opinion is valued; her approval, encouraging; her friendship, rewarding. Happiness is her slow, warm smile.

We of the graduating class congratulate her on becoming a John Hay Fellow and wish her all success in the coming year of study. We consider it a great privilege to dedicate our 1965 Oread to our adviser, teacher, and friend—Miss Mildred Akins.

Foreword

In the future, as the Class of 1965 looks back on its four years of high school, memories of the crowded classrooms and corridors, the insufficient space and equipment of Edmunds will contrast vividly with the modern laboratories, spacious corridors and classrooms, and up-to-date facilities available in our new Burlington High School. We will recall how, often nostalgic for the old, we were sometimes hesitant about and fearful of the new. Confronted for the first time with student numbers, new report cards, class numbers, teacher numbers, and assembly seats assigned by numbers, we feared a loss of personal identity. We even had visions of becoming only robots in a completely automated school.

As the year wore on, however, we began to realize how ridiculous our fears really were. We discovered that if a machine could save the administration and faculty countless hours of routine drudgery, they would have more time to devote to us as individuals. The welfare and progress of their students remained the chief concern of our teachers, who utilized the new laboratories, lecture halls, and equipment to create an atmosphere of enriched learning, study, and research. They were still interested in our successes and failures. To them we continued to be people.

The Oread board and staff, well aware of the foregoing, has chosen as the theme of the 1965 annual—the FUTURE. The new Burlington High School looks proudly to the future; and in articles, poetry, and cover design we have tried to show that we, too, are a part of that future. The little robot sketches remind us humorously of our fears that proved unfounded. We hope the 1965 Oread will recall to you the many happy times and friendships of both Edmunds and BHS and that you will say with us, "Yes, we remember fondly our years in Edmunds, but—we were the first class to graduate from the new Burlington High School!"

Five buildings—
The dream of a city . .
Separate monuments
To an age of steel,
An age of metal,
Of computers,
And hard-pressed facts . . .
Separate—
Yet united
By those who see the dream,
Begun in concrete
And beams of steel,
In the warmth
Of human contact,
Of the stimulation
Of educated minds
To youthful ideas—
Teachers who,
Within this modern structure,
Use technical marvels
To enkindle a desire
To rise
To ever higher Summits!

Administration and Faculty

TO THE CLASS OF 1965:

One of the interesting aspects of education is that students completing high school attend what is called "Graduation." What makes this interesting is that graduation is also called "Commencement," and commencement means a beginning. Those of you who are graduating this year are beginning an adventure which will prove much more exciting than we can imagine at this moment. Whatever your interests in life; whatever your talents; you will find that you must continue to learn more about your job, the world about you, and the people with whom you must spend the next fifty years or more.

We cannot imagine that the human race will develop its technology much more than it has. Just recently an astronaut has floated free in space. What was once science fiction is now reality! Progress in our world seems to result from an idea. Have you had any original ideas lately? Have you decided yet what you hope to have accomplished twenty-five years from now?

One thought we would like to leave with you is that as rapid transportation and advanced means of communication bring the countries of the world closer together, it will be most important that the peoples of this planet cooperate with one another and coordinate their solutions to daily problems.

Graduates of 1965, you will be the senior citizens of the next century. You have had a good start in preparing for this important role. What is done to further develop your abilities is now up to YOU.

Congratulations on your commencement.

WILLIAM F. KEOUGH, JR.
Superintendent of Schools

TO THE CLASS OF 1965:

Congratulations!

Being the first to take on a worthwhile and important task is never easy. By chance, your class found itself in the position of being the first senior class to study at the new Burlington High School.

You have accepted the task and the challenge well. You have distinguished yourself by numbering among your group outstanding scholars, outstanding musicians and outstanding athletes. In my opinion most importantly you are all outstanding citizens. You have brought credit to yourselves and to the new school. You have set a high standard for succeeding classes, and in so doing, you have taken the solid traditions of "Old Edmunds" and transferred many of them to new surroundings, giving them new meaning.

I am proud to have worked with you during the past year. None of us will soon forget this class.

Good luck to each of you in the days ahead.

GLEN M. FAY
Principal

The school year 1964-1965 will go down as the year of the great change: the new buildings and department head system; a new type of scheduling for students; and a wonderful attitude on the part of the parents and taxpayers of the community.

The challenge of leading this change was taken up by the class of 1965. Slowly, sometimes reluctantly, they tossed aside the old and moved ahead with the new. They developed BHS into a going concern. Their wisdom has filtered down to the juniors and sophomores so that we may look ahead to continued change through experimentation. Congratulations to the class of 1965 for a fine start for Burlington High School!

Robert E. Morrison

To the Class of 1965:

I consider myself most fortunate to have served as principal of Edmunds Senior High School during your sophomore and junior years. I am grateful for this opportunity to congratulate you on the completion of your high school course.

The Class of 1965, the first to be graduated from the new Burlington High School, has served as a pioneer in a new school plant and as a steadying and stabilizing force in the new educational environment. I hope that your preparation at Edmunds has served you well on this "shake-down cruise" at the new school and that that preparation, coupled with a good senior year, has made you ready to meet the more difficult challenges of college or employment.

I hope that you will be forever thankful for the lessons learned at Edmunds and Burlington High Schools. May success and happiness be yours!

Advisory Council

The Advisory Council: Mr. V. Mori; Dr. P. D. Chiaravalle, Mr. J. M. Morrow, Mr. S. C. Faryniarz, Mr. A. Trono, Principal G. L. Fay, Assistant Principal R. E. Morrison, Mr. W. E. Green, Mr. J. E. Carter, Mrs. D. O. Offensend, Mr. W. C. Whitman, Miss L. L. White.

STANLEY C. FARYNIARZ, 15 Lopes Avenue: B.S.Ed., M.Ed., University of Vermont; Director of Pupil Personnel.

RUTH A. HOAG, 16 Appletree Court, South Burlington: A.B., M.Ed., University of Vermont; NDEA Guidance Institute, University of Maine; Director of Guidance.

CLAIRE T. MILLER, 39 Iranistan Road: B.S., Lyndon State College; Guidance.

Building "A" is nerve center of BHS

The suite of guidance offices is the very core of BHS. From it scurry messengers with notices; to it comes every student at BHS. Whether helping to obtain employment . . . sending college transcripts . . . organizing PSAT, SAT, NMSQF's, Advanced Placements . . . solving schedule conflicts . . . interviewing . . . recommending . . . or just giving friendly advice, the school's small but dedicated guidance staff is always ready to listen and help.

The administrative offices of the principal and assistant principal are second homes to many of the students. To Mr. Fay and Mr. Morrison falls the impossible task of co-ordinating and supervising the progress of all the curricular and extracurricular activities of a complex, but smooth-running school.

Mrs. Caroline Hodgdon, guidance department secretary, cheerfully prepares student schedules and transcripts.

Ed Barewicz, Dolores Maynard, and Kathy Maynard obtain autographs from well-known columnist, Ann Landers, who addressed a crowd of enthusiastic BHS students in May.

Mrs. Luella Lamphere, accountant in charge of student funds, efficiently cares for the students' finances.

Mrs. Ina Woodward, school secretary, seems to enjoy working in the new school office.

Students cram gymnasium, important part of Bldg. A, to cheer at Rice pep rally. Paul Cummings thrusts spear through dummy of Rice player.

Tumultuous applause, rousing cheers, the sounds

The sounds of "A": voices hoarsely screaming cheers . . . the bounce of a basketball being dribbled down the court . . . "Give me a 'B'! Give me a 'U'!" . . . the clank of locker doors . . . hushed, grave voices of athletes before a game . . . the tinkle of showers . . . "I pledge allegiance" . . . enthusiastic applause . . . And even late at night the corridors of the gym and the auditorium must re-echo with the ghosts of day time sounds of vibrant, laughing students at work and at play.

printers, cooks—products of Building “A”

Perhaps the greatest single advantage to the vocational department of the new high school is having all the courses under one roof, not, as before, partly at the high school and partly in the annex. In addition to this advantage new and better equipment and more space have improved all the courses in electronics, carpentry, woodworking, auto mechanics, and machine trades. With equipment furnished by the Federal Government a print shop was set up on the top floor. Here were printed the Register and other school publications and forms. The new quantity cooking area was of great benefit to the vocational quantity foods class, which prepared and served the meals for the faculty dining room. Students in this class also got training in becoming cashiers and waitresses. The carpentry classes built a house. The department hopes to expand even more in the future.

Building "B" is the heart of BHS

Building B is the heart of BHS, because the library is there. It is there that are located the books upon which the structure of our whole education is built. Students take full advantage of the library's facilities—working individually at tables or in carrels, in the meeting room or in the classroom. BHS students are justly proud of the library—one of the school's finest features. They go there when seeking silence or information.

In "B" also is the student center. Here one finds students busy with all the extracurricular activities which supplement their education; they can work on Oread, type the endless Register articles, discuss the agendas of future meetings, browse in the bookstore, or consult the student bulletin board.

Mr. Smith tells Nancy Bora how to use the bookstore cash register.

Looking as though they were about to blast off into outer space, a group of beginning Spanish or French students sit in one of the electronic language classrooms repeating a dialogue or a pattern practice. The teacher goes from student to student, plugging into the headset to give individual help as needed. In the laboratory more advanced students learn the lessons prepared for future members of the diplomatic corps, record their voices, work on individual grammar or pronunciation, take dictation—all with the helpful supervision of the teacher at the console.

The new laboratory, electronic classrooms, overhead projectors, tapes, and recordings have added new meaning to the study of languages at BHS. Because of the school's facilities and well-trained staff, BHS became this year a Modern Language Instructional Center for language teachers of northeastern Vermont.

Building "C" is seat of BHS humanities

"Drama is one of the chief instruments through which man has attempted to explore and explain his own nature."

"Every piece of writing is a search for meaning."

"History is always changing, but a little of the past is always in the present."

In the new BHS, Building "C" is the only wing devoted exclusively to academic classrooms. There are found the courses in English, history, drama, creative writing. The humanities (exclusive of Latin and modern languages) are located in "C". Between classes students mill about in the halls—many still arguing or commenting on the materials just covered in class. After school the faculty area, the biggest of the school, is full of students, conversing with teachers. Every student has at least one class in "C"; some have two or three. The realization that only by a study of past ages and civilizations and the men who lived in them can one truly comprehend the present and the future; that insight into one's own feelings and reactions can best be achieved by a study of characters in literary works—poetry, novels, drama—has led to expanded course offerings in both the English and history departments.

The Humanities Lecture Series, additional drama instruction, creative writing, public speaking, and, above all, a new atmosphere in the classes prove that all the humanistic studies are getting added emphasis and encouragement and arousing greater curiosity at Burlington High School.

Clicking typewriters, ringing cash registers . . .

Clicking typewriters, ringing cash registers, whirring machines, voices murmuring in concentration—these are the sounds of Building "D." Here busy and efficient students spend many hours preparing for the years after high school. Whether keeping books and records, studying the basis of our economy or learning the techniques of sales and advertising, BHS students broaden their perspectives and chances for better jobs. The experience (both practical and intellectual) gained in business classes will give a head start to BHS graduates as they start their careers. Success in the business world depends greatly on past experience and knowledge gained in early training. Many area executives agree that hiring a Burlington High School business graduate means employing a person who will be a great asset to the business world.

The Business Department offers a large variety of subjects, but no course is taught unless it will serve a very useful purpose in the future. The department teaches not only procedures for the office, but also the importance of good grooming. Area business and professional men come to BHS to talk to students on all the phases of working and the importance of a worker's personal appearance. During the last part of the year students fill out application forms, make up data sheets, and begin to look for jobs. They practice job interviews in the classroom and learn to avoid mistakes when seeking a job after graduation. For those who would like to go on to work, the department does as much as possible to help the students find suitable jobs. When companies inform the school of job openings in their firms, the instructor sends students best fitted to apply.

Building "E" is center of precise thinking

Math has taken on a new concept this year as a result of the formation of a computer club. The sophisticated clicks of the punch card machine have added new color to the sights and sounds of Building "E." Thinking has not become obsolete in the math department, however, but has assumed a prominent position with the advent of new math as the terms Gotran, Fortran, and SPS have come into frequent use.

In spite of these impressive innovations in the math program, the conventional programs of calculus, trigonometry, geometry, and algebra remain in the curriculum and provide ample material for the frustrated thinker. The teaching of functions, logarithms, and relations still continues to have its place, but the addition of a new course to the already strong curriculum has made BHS's math department the most comprehensive in the state.

Tinkling test tubes . . . CCl_4 . . . smells and sounds of "E"

The sounds of BHS science: the incredible hush of Tuesday tests in the lab . . . the chatter of inquisitive young scientists . . . thistle tubes breaking . . . an occasional explosive bang . . . choking students who just made too much H_2S . And the smells: too much H_2S . . . acrid odor of formaldehyde . . . pungent fragrance of geraniums.

Stimulated by this environment, the budding young scientists of BHS are building a basis for future careers. With a lab for each science—physics, biology, and chemistry—students are gaining actual experience. For those interested in the study of living things, an advanced biology course is offered this year. The new greenhouse provides potential space for experimentation with plants. The whole atmosphere of the science department is one of interest and learning.

Gerry Cobb raps out a hit against Rice.

Blueboys win League title

Sparked by an enthusiastic student turnout behind Coach Orrie Jay, the B.H.S. nine played through a successful year. They captured their thirteenth Northern League baseball title, but were defeated in the state semi-finals by Rice, 7 to 3. At home on the South Park diamond . . . and away, the Seahorses rallied to an 11 and 3 season. A top-notch team and unbeatable spirit—sparked by the hottest pep-rallies in the school's history—made Northern League teams shudder in anticipation of meeting the B.H.S. nine.

The Seahorses held power, consistency, and some surprises. The power was made obvious by the strong season's record and was exemplified by second-baseman Tom Duprey, voted the team's most valuable player. The consistency is immediately evident to the observer. Even, powerful batting and superlative pitching by Mac Adams and Frank Joyal offered plenty of unfailing power. Then, too, when the necessity arose, the Seahorses were always ready to pull a rabbit out of the hat. Such was the case when the BHS nine sprang Frank Joyal in his first role as starting pitcher in the Montpelier game . . . to the tune of a 4-0 victory.

This is not to say the terrors of the Northern League didn't run against formidable opponents—they did. However, roaring smoothly, like a well-oiled machine, the Seahorses mowed them down . . . South Burlington, Essex, Rice, B.F.A., and Montpelier. Those few that got the upper hand had it only once. During the season no team beat the BHS nine twice. Winooski found this to be true when they won the first game by a slim one-run margin, only to be slaughtered by Coach Orrie Jay's men 16 to 2 next time up—just one more spectacular showing from a team with POWER, PUSH, AND PERSONALITY.

Edmunds wins second straight Northern League title

The 1964 Edmunds High School track team, ably coached by George Sulima and Edward O'Bryan, rolled to its second Northern League title in as many years and then gained third place in the hotly-contested state meet. In regular season competition the Seahorses were 6 and 1, their only loss coming at the hands of St. Johnsbury. Burlington also edged out Rice 65 $\frac{1}{3}$ to 56 $\frac{2}{3}$. The team's overall record, including district and state meets, was an outstanding 35 to 3.

Joe (Bullets) Rivers was the leading scorer. As a result, he received the Most Valuable Player Award. Rivers was closely followed by John Hulburd, Jim Bahrenburg, and Rod Whittier. Co-captains David Waller and Larry Deshaw were the other top scoring threats. Larry Chiott won the newly inaugurated Holland L. Smith Award for Sportsmanship.

State championship brings honor to Perry Bove rushes in to recover Montpelier fumble.

On the heels of a respectable '63 season, the new BHS football team rallied in 1964 with a triumphant, undefeated season.

In the first game of the season, a standing-room-only crowd saw the Seahorses defeat Montpelier. The crowds followed the Seahorses as they galloped through victory after victory. Against a strong Spaulding squad, Burlington refused to be weakened as Jim Wick, on an end run, scored the first and last T.D. of the game. Coach Beck proudly watched as his team rolled up the best record in years.

On the rainy day that BHS faced Rice, spirits were high on both sides; but Rice's enthusiasm was dampened as Frank Joyal scored the only touchdown of the game. A spark of hope remained with the Rice rooters as their team started a strong drive late in the game; however, this spark was extinguished when Perry Bove intercepted a Rice pass. Although in possession of the ball, Burlington's last offensive effort fell short as time ran out, but the damaging blow had already been dealt.

Winning the championship was a great triumph for the BHS squad and for Coach Eddie Beck, in his second year as BHS's head football coach. Determination, excellent guidance, and an 8-0 record made the Seahorses the best football team in the state.

Dedication of Buck Hard Field draws 2,000

Overlooking BHS's new athletic field stands a boulder which bears a bronze likeness of Milton L. ("Buck") Hard, former coach at Burlington for over thirty years. Saul Zaetz, BHS football and basketball star under Buck in 1929-30, designed this bronze plaque.

On September 12, 1964, a record crowd of over two thousand friends and former athletes of Coach Buck Hard gathered at the monument for an impressive dedication ceremony. Mrs. Hard unveiled the statue, and former Superintendent of Schools Lyman C. Hunt reminisced about Buck's coaching days. Other speakers were School Board Chairman John E. Hayes and Superintendent William Keough.

In years to come the plaque and boulder will look out over all BHS athletic contests and serve as a constant inspiration to future athletes at Buck Hard Field.

Burlington High School's successful sports season began with the dedication of the Buck Hard plaque.

Led by cross-country mentor, Coach Bob Pecor, the BHS cross-country team chalked up an outstanding 11-3 slate, with some impressive victories over local competition. Throughout the season, long and lanky Joe Rivers paced the team and was undefeated in state meets, while placing seventh in the hotly contested New England meet. It takes more than one runner to make a team, however; and the necessary depth was supplied primarily by Wayne Wilcox, Larry Chiott, Rick Racusen, and Buddy Coffrin, who, as a result, earned a ticket to the state meet. Although only five men can score in any one meet, the entire team showed the enthusiasm necessary to a winning team.

In spite of the loss of graduating veterans, Larry Chiott and John Thompson, 1965, with several lettermen returning, promises to be another outstanding season.

Young team makes State Meet

Coach Wilbur Bull's ski team had a season of hard luck in 1964-65. The general lack of success was the result partially of insufficient practice for want of good snow, partially of injuries, and partially of youth and inexperience.

In the regularly scheduled meets, the team averaged third place out of five competing teams. In the Northern District Meet at Lyndonville, BHS placed fifth, thus earning a ticket to the state meet. This meet, also held at Lyndonville, had ten competing teams, five from the Northern District and five from the Southern; Burlington High took ninth place overall.

BHS Skihorses participating in the State Meet were freshmen Steve Hill (first for the team in the cross-country event), Ed Blakely, and Buddy Coffrin; sophomores Dudley Rood (first for the team in slalom and giant slalom), Ed Jewell, Perry Bland, Chris Carpenter, and Bob Cummings; juniors Carl Nunnick (first for the team in jumping) and Jeff Schumacher; and senior Ed Stevens. Unfortunately, junior Bill Cunningham could not compete because of an injury; and Perry Bland, after taking second for the team in the giant slalom, broke his leg in practice and was unable to enter the cross-country event.

This year's team was a young one with only three lettermen. Next year, therefore, with the team's added age and experience, and, hopefully, a substantial increase in the white stuff so rare this year prospects are bright for an improved record.

Ed Blakely cuts the corner cleanly as he speeds down the slalom slope.

Jeff Schumacher stretches out for maximum distance.

Perry Bland strains for more speed over the cross country course.

Flakes fail Girls' Ski Team

Once again the lack of snow melted the hopes of the Girls' Ski Team for a winning season. Under the attentive guidance of Coach Olive Krogman, the girls practiced faithfully, with typical BHS determination. Meets were scheduled with six other schools, and money was earned through car washes and bake sales to support away trips.

Then, the snow melted and, with it, the possibility of more than two or three ski meets. The Ski-lassies raced in two meets—one, a three-way meet in Claremont, New Hampshire, in which they placed second by .5 second, and another with Windsor, which they won. In the second meet, the winning time of freshman Barb Cunningham spurred the team on to an easy victory.

With more snow the Ski-lassies should have a good season next year. Only one senior, Capt. B. A. Cunningham, graduates. Juniors Brenda Jewell and Priscilla Spaulding, sophomores Kristen Allen, Nancy Conklin, Polly Cook, Nancy McDonald, Martha Paterson and Claudette Emerson, and freshmen Beth Bland, Barbara Cunningham, and Jenny Stein remain to constitute a nucleus for next year's team.

Almost "all the way with EJB"

Burlington started the 1964-1965 season with a rather punchless offense and a defense easily riddled by opposing teams. Just when Burlington crowds were starting to get up to leave early, the Seahorses pulled their first upset of the season by toppling the Essex Hornets from first place in the Northern League by a 61-37 score. This set the stage for a topsy-turvy season, where Burlington frequently played the role of spoiler. Despite this disappointing start the Blueboys concluded the season tied for a second place in the rugged League and a highly respectable runner-up position in the Northern Class "L" Tournament at Barre. Throughout the season, Burlington did not have just one outstanding player. At one time or another the top seven managed to come through with clutch performances to insure Burlington victories.

After dropping the first game of the thrilling Rice-Burlington series, BHS ended the second game in an overwhelming victory, after four Seahorses hit double figures to pace the well-balanced scoring attack. In the final and most important game against rival Rice, Burlington and Rice battled for fourth spot in the Northern Tournament. The BHS hoopsters, having captured the lead in the early stages of the game, never relinquished it and thus gained a well-deserved win.

Going into the Northern District Tournament, the Blueboys were the fourth seeded team. This failed, however, to undermine the determined spirit of both the team and its faithful followers. The first game on tap was against the classy Crusaders of Champlain Valley Union High. The Crusaders were the top seeded team and had already dumped the Seahorses twice during regular season play. The game was closely fought with the lead often in immediate jeopardy; but E. J. Burke, Northern League Coach of the Year, with key game strategy, mounted a fourth-period surge which broke the back of the Crusaders. This victory sent Burlington against highly rated Spaulding High School. The tournament veterans jumped to a 17-4 first period lead, which, at the time, appeared to be insurmountable. However, the Blueboys battled back to tie the score in the late stages of the game. With 1:50 remaining, the Blueboys charged to an amazing four point lead but failed to score another point. The final score was 58-54 in Spaulding's favor. In tournament honors, Joe Rivers and Frank Joyal were chosen for the All-Tourney Team for their consistent tournament playing.

Inspirational and scoring leader, John Hulburd, was named the team's most valuable player, and captured a first team berth on the All-Northern League squad. Furthermore, Captain Paul Bruhn, representing the team, accepted the Elk's Club trophy for the outstanding record in the city series competition.

Since five varsity lettermen, as well as numerous talented junior varsity players, are returning, Burlington supporters are looking forward to at least an equally successful season next year.

Sealassies threaten league-leading Essex in overtime

Anyone who saw the Sealassies' games this year knows how much the girls, under the guidance of Coach Jean Robinson, improved during the season. Coming on strong, the squad made great progress in what was supposed to be a building year. They reached their peak during the final two games of the season and played their best against league-leading Essex and Milton.

The Bluegirls had been defeated by Essex in the first encounter of the two teams. In the second meeting, however, Burlington forced its rival into overtime. Although they finally lost 36-32, the 'Lassies had shown that their ability and teamwork were enough to threaten Essex's chance for first place in the league. BHS's final game, another thriller, saw the improved Sealassies beat Milton by a slim two-point margin.

The new Northern League, which included BHS, BFA, Essex, Rice, Milton, and Vergennes, was a strong league. The Sealassies finished fourth; while Milton and Rice were tied for second and Essex won the title. The Burlington girls, though lacking in height, handled the ball as well as any team in the league. They finished the year with 8 wins and 5 losses, having beaten every team with the exception of Essex.

The three seniors who played their last game for BHS this year are Captain Andi Midworth, Nancy Wilber, and Sherri Walker. Andi set up the offense and scored 94 points for the Sealassies. Sherri and Nancy were consistent scorers for the offense and accumulated totals of 111 and 74, respectively.

with 122 points.

The Junior Varsity, also coached by Miss Robinson, ended the season with 5 wins and 7 losses. Most of the squad was inexperienced, the majority of the starters being freshmen. They, had however, good depth and excellent potential, with Kathy Joyal, Judy Frech, and Debbie Martin as standouts. Considering the experience this year has brought the team, the JV's should be a top unit next year.

Tennis and golf teams add glory to BHS

Burlington's tennis team swept to a near-perfect season with a 10-1 record. Since the Seahorses were undefeated in state play, they unofficially claimed the state title. The season featured a tour through Massachusetts where the team suffered its only loss at the hands of a Longmeadow team. The loss was not determined until the final set of the last match when the Blueboys were toppled in doubles competition. The squad was strong in depth, as there was not a single player to post a losing record.

Once-defeated Scott Bristol was the number one player throughout the season. He was followed by Chuck Davis, Mike Lash, Tom Foulds, Jeff Schumacher, Jim Foster, John McGill, and Bill Cunningham, in their respective playing order. As the team members are all juniors and sophomores, BHS tennis should have an even better season next year.

With an outstanding 8-1 record, the Burlington High golf team, member of the Central Vermont Golf League, was tied for first place at the end of the season. In a special finals tournament Steve Ravlin, Rodney Carr, and Bill O'Brien easily copped the title and brought back a fine trophy. Ravlin led the low scorers, followed by Carr. Other fairway splitters were O'Brien and Steve Bullis. As the team, coached by Mr. Al Trono, is losing only two seniors, Chip Phillips and Paul Bruhn, the outlook for BHS to repeat as champs next year is favorable.

BHS nine, Northern League champions and . . .

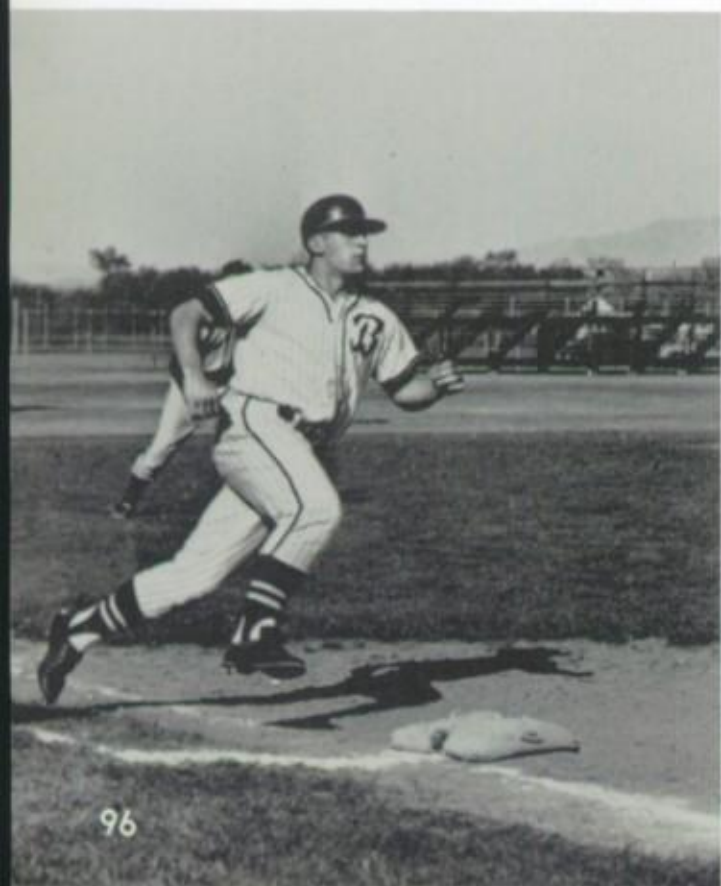

Under the able leadership of Orrie Jay, the 1965 baseball team won the Northern League Crown and was state runner-up. It was the 14th time since the league was founded in 1934 that Coach Jay had led BHS to the number one spot.

Predominantly a team of sophomores and juniors, the Jaymen had a fine season's record of 13-3, which included three wins over Rice.

At the end of the season Walt Adams, Frank Joyal, and Paul Trono were elected as tri-captains.

If one of two strong hurlers can be found for next year, Burlington appears to be headed for another successful season.

Orrie Jay displays typical game expressions.

Jeff Lewis on his way to 12'6"

Although somewhat hampered for a lack of a field, Coaches George Sulima and Edward O'Bryan again shaped a championship track team for the year 1965. Hard work and good coaching brought results, as the Blueboys set six new state track meet records and placed second in both the district and state track meets.

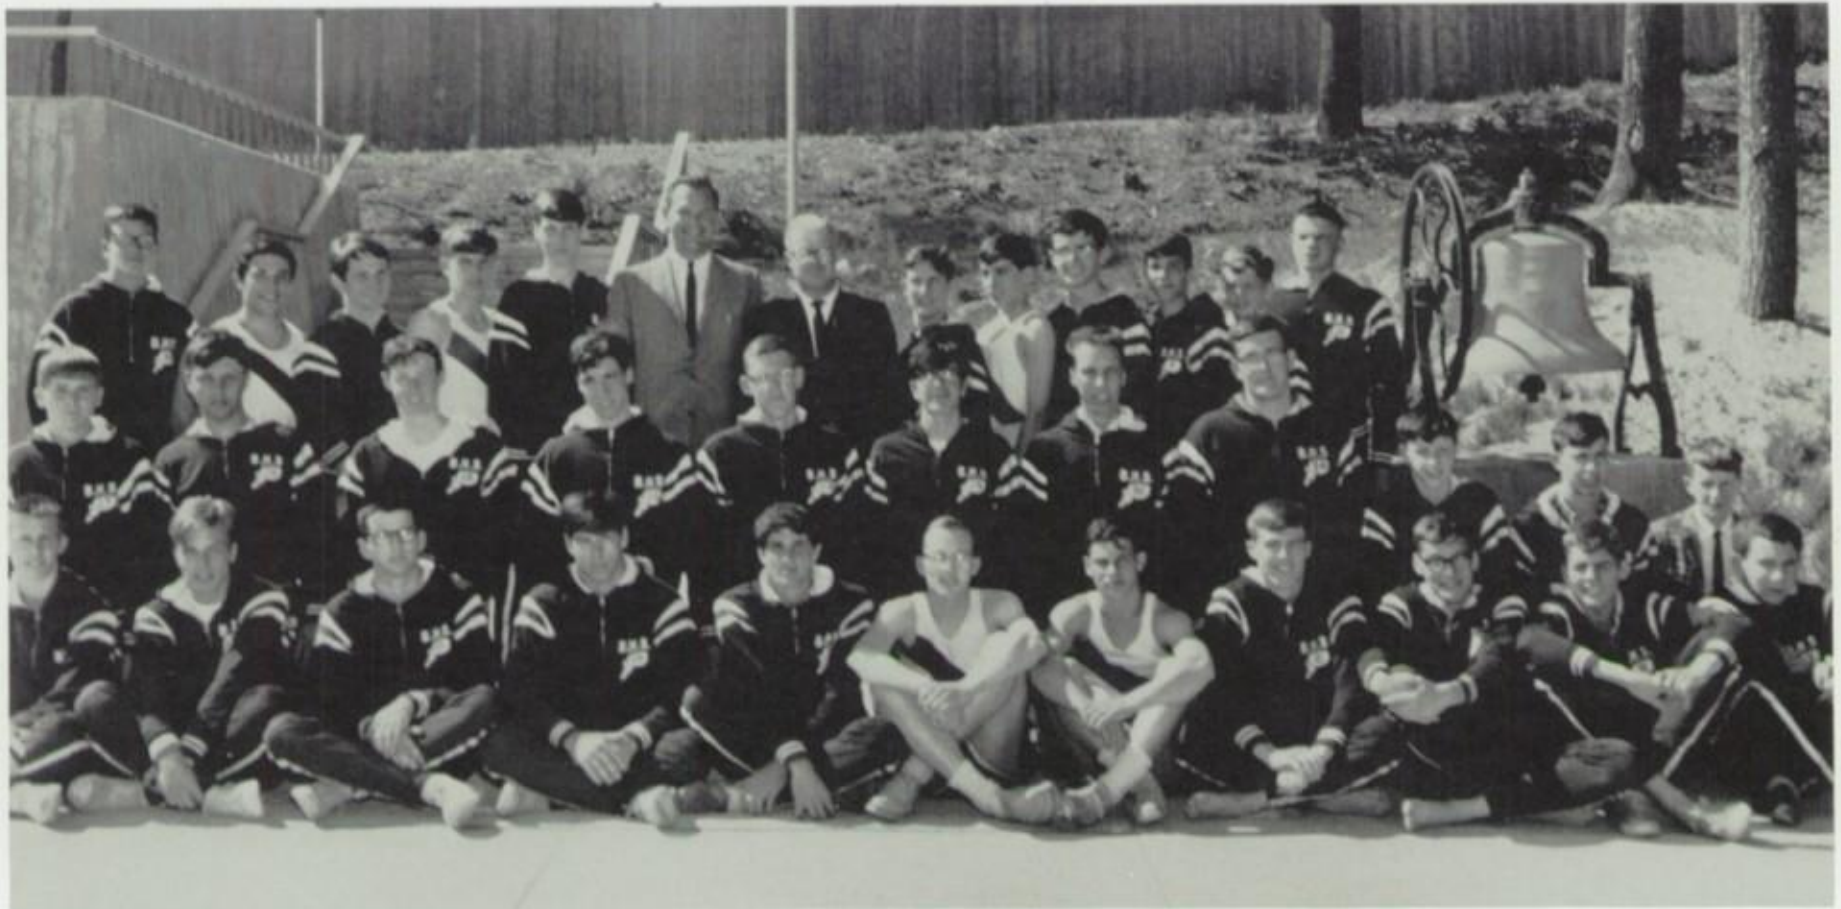

The new record holders were Jeff Lewis in the pole vault (12 ft. 2 3/4"); Joe Rivers in the 880 in 2:00:1 and the mile in 4:25; Don Pariseau in the low hurdles at 20:1; Barry Conolly, Paul Ingham, Dennis Havey and Larry Chiott in the mile relay in 3:49:2; and the 880 relay team of Neil Bouffard, Alan Cohen, Gary Lemieux and Charlie Harrington in 1:33:5.

The team was undefeated in the dual meets and placed third of sixteen teams at Plattsburgh Invitational where Barry Conolly, Neil Bouffard, Alan Cohen, and Joe Rivers set a mile medley relay record

The team will be losing five strong seniors, Gary Lemieux, Don Pariseau, John Willard, and Co-Captains Jeff Lewis and Larry Chiott. The eleven returning lettermen, however, should strengthen the prospects for a state championship team in 1966. Head Coach George Sulima said, "Prospects look good for 1966. We'll be losing some good seniors, but returning lettermen will give us a team to be respected."

Student Council elections follow new procedures

Mr. Lecours, L. Case, S. Perlmutter, M. Kelley and F. de Aguiar leave for state convention.

The organization of the 1964-65 Student Council was carried on in a manner which gave each interested student an opportunity to run for a position as representative of his class. In order for a student to be considered a candidate, he had to file a petition containing at least forty signatures of members of his class. Those who submitted petitions with the required signatures spoke before their classmates at a class meeting. Each member of the class was asked to vote for ten of the candidates, and the ten with the most votes were elected representatives. This year's officers were Mike Kelley, president; Saul Perlmutter, vice-president; Debby Kaufman, secretary; and Leslie Case, treasurer. Gwen Holden later replaced Debby

Kaufman on her departure for her AFS year in South Africa. Also on the Council were the four defeated presidential candidates, AFS exchange student, Flavio, and the three class presidents.

The main objectives of this year's governing body were to arouse an interest on the part of each student in the activities of the Council and to secure cooperation between the student body and the administration in overcoming those problems which arise in the organization of a new school. This Student Council forum helped to solve transportation and cafeteria problems, aided in the regulation of school sponsored activities such as dances and sports events, and sponsored assembly programs. Again this year, the Council supported Kim Kun Ju, BHS's foster child, and sponsored a canned food drive. Representatives also attended a district meeting and three regional meetings and visited the Champlain Valley Union High School. Mr. Lecours, assistant adviser, accompanied three delegates and Flavio to the VASC convention in Newport. Through an association with other councils and a comparison of projects and ideas, the Student Council has become even more efficient and more useful to the school.

Folk singer Kathy DeBoer, accompanied by guitarists Brian Roach and Jeff Robinson, entertains at the Student Council talent assembly.

Register weathers series of crises

Flash bulbs popping, pens scribbling, typewriters clacking, brains working—all are part of the Register. The 1964-65 year started off with a bang as the first issue of the Register came out the first week of school. Aided by the sales classes and the football team, an all-out campaign for subscriptions resulted in a total circulation of 500. New problems presented in the new BHS were tackled by Editor Debby Frazier and her trusty board. Candy Page, the original editor, gave moral support from Helsinki, Finland. Lack of home-rooms complicated distribution of the paper. The need for involving more students in the Register and the problem of meeting deadlines were harder to solve.

Several new features appeared this year, including "Slanted Sports," "Bits and Pieces," and the controversial "Cat's Paw." Bert the beetle managed to survive the move from the old Register room in Edmunds to the new one in BHS. The spirit of adventure and the approach to controversy essential to any journalistic endeavor led the Register staff out of one crisis and into another throughout the year. However, the spirit remained undaunted and hopefully will continue so for many years to come.

Detour is edited by creative writing class

With the inauguration of a creative writing course, a base for publishing Detour, the school's combined literary effort, was found. Around Christmas members of the class were elected to positions on the publication staff, and work began in earnest. In an effort to bring the magazine out before the end of the year, contributions from the student body were collected; poems, essays, descriptive passages were sorted. Finally the rough copy began to take shape. When the finished copy reached his hands, the reader became the story-teller and critic.

Seated: Maria Meymarian, Angie Sultanos, Sheila Crosby. Standing: Janet Carter, Judi Mills.

Ça et Là retains originality

Ça et Là, an all French magazine, put out two issues this year. Contributions of humorous stories, entertaining poetry, engaging crossword puzzles and instructive proverbs were made by members of the French classes. Drawings and sketches by the talented artists illustrated the selections as well as amused the readers. The final issue featured a congratulatory letter received by the editors from a Lebanese French professor.

Connie Shannon, Allan Hunt, Tim Steele, Mrs. Alnasrawi, Sandy Blackstone.

Handbook becomes Bluebook

The Handbook Committee has been busily engaged this year in revising and publishing the student handbook, recently re-named the BHS Bluebook. Miss White and Mrs. Alnasrawi, faculty advisers, have worked closely with the chairman, Sandra Blackstone, and committee members. They have put many hours into the task of creating a useful and helpful handbook.

"Kidney stones?" asks surgeon Max Kahn of his assistants.

Le Cercle Français est formidable!

A frogman, shouting French phrases and lunging after a squirming fish; a surgeon performing a difficult gall-stone operation; Hansel and Gretel in an oven—these were some of the hilarious moments shared by the BHS and Rice French students as the two schools met in the BHS cafeteria for a joint meeting of the Cercles Français. Rivalries forgotten, everyone matched wits and combined talents in tricky word games and paper bag dramatics. As one team found 145 French words in "consubstantiellement", another constructed a skit from such bizarre props as eyelash curlers, bent coat hangers, pipe cleaners, and an ordinary rock.

The year's officers—Flavio de Aguiar, president; Jeff Schumacher, vice-president; Linda Hale, treasurer; and Sherri Mundell, secretary—with members of the planning committee led a large and enthusiastic club in a fun-filled year. The match game, the singing of Noëls beneath the lobby Christmas tree, colored slides of France, colorful Mardi Gras costumes and dancing at Rice with the crowning of Anne Halebian queen—all gave club members a chance to parler français and have fun à la française.

The Latin Club, which has existed at BHS practically ab infinito but was non-existent last year, was rejuvenated in 1964-65. A varied program, stressing Roman culture, was initiated by the Latin officials: Barb Feinberg and Brad Gordon, consuls; Linda Hale, scribe; Lucy Northrup, quaestor; Laure Shearer, Pat Salmon, Karl Weinrich, and Pam Hill, officers charged with recreation and drawing up laws; and Mrs. Hackett, adviser. In a Roman fashion show, written by Jan Carter and narrated by Linda Hale, members modeled imaginative costumes representing various professions and levels of Roman society. The club next enjoyed the movie, "The Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire." Mrs. Stone of SBHS told of her recent trip to Rome and described her colored slides of famous landmarks and ruins. In April the citizens gathered for a Roman banquet—ab ovo ad malum, and, the omens being favorable, ate well, entertained by dancing slave girls and two humorous skits.

The Spanish Club brought to the new school an established tradition of Latin gaiety. The year's calendar shows why. September—election of officers: Mary Caccavo, president; Ken Lauritzen, vice-president; Lana Meunier, secretary; Paul Bruhn, treasurer. October—slides of South America and the medical ship "Hope," shown by Rusty and Bobby Morrow. November—slides of Africa shown by Miss Kimball. December—posada party complete with games, carols accompanied by a guitar, and a well-filled piñata. March—Spanish play and folkdancing. May—assembly program and trip to UVM language lab. Never fear, I'm safely guarded!

Dear BHS'ers,

Outside our Scout cottage, the snow glints in diamonds under the dark green firs; and from the lakeside, smoke from the sauna drifts slowly into the cold blue sky.

How far this all seems from the capital of Helsinki, my Finnish home! The confusion of sound—voices, footsteps, the grinding hum of train against track, the wail of foghorns from the harbor; and sights—the white sails of fishing boats against the blue ocean, the veil of fog that renders even the most familiar places mysterious, the flickering of a thousand candles in the cemeteries at midnight on Christmas Eve—all these signs of the city seem cons away during a weekend lost among the vast forests and sixty thousand lakes of Finland.

In the past six months I have been lucky enough to become acquainted with both sides of this amazing country, which not only encompasses the world of culture and modern business but is equally a land of Lapps, saunas, and reindeer herds.

Attending Apollon Yhteiskoulu and making new friends brought its combination of the expected and the unexpected. Finnish schools, while they seem to require little more than acceptance of facts in literature, demand extremely original and creative thinking in mathematics and science.

All these contrasts in Finnish life reflect the great differences found among the people themselves—unique in origin and language and hardened by many years of struggle against those who would be their masters. Here I have found a people who are shy and withdrawn, but also friendly; modest, but violent when aroused.

In spite of all the differences, however, I am increasingly aware of the all-important discovery that every AFS'er makes: there is really very little difference among the peoples of the world. Everyday my friends and I find new interests, opinions, and feelings in common; and, at times, I forget that I'm in Finland.

So, one day I shall come back to the people who opened their hearts to me, to the city of fog and mystery, to the land where the trees are tall, where the cows have long horns, and the sun shines at midnight.

Tervesiä Suomesta,
Candy

Dear BHS'ers,

As the time has arrived to look back through this whole year, I have only two words to say: thank you.

Thank you for everything—from the tangible things, like my pictures, my class ring, my phone call home (I talked too much and I went overtime)—to the intangible things.

I certainly appreciated all the efforts made to help me in school, from showing me where building C was to helping me with physics formulas. I thank you also for all invitations to meetings, dances, parties, games, and trips, which surely helped me to understand better Americans and America.

I could fill the whole Oread with things I have to thank for, like the help I received in fighting with two terrible wooden sticks, called skis, under my feet up in the mountains.

All these things, together with my life in an American family, made my Burlington stay an unforgettable part of my life. I have always felt surrounded by a permanent, warm greeting—although, as soon as the temperature went below 60°, I started to feel cold.

Above all, BHS'ers, I want to thank you for one thing, one single thing, although it is the widest and greatest truth of history since two human beings started living together.

I have become more aware that we are privileged, BHS'ers.

We, you and I, are privileged, because we are in a school, because we have clothes to wear and food to eat. Two thirds of the people in the world do not. We are privileged because we live. In some regions eighty per cent of the children die before the first year. Today the world is not in peace. A nation is not respected for what she presents or represents, but for the bombs she is able to drop.

This paints a dark picture; but, in this picture, a bright hope is rising: this hope is understanding. In a world where men and nations cannot live or survive alone, simply because men were not born to live or survive alone, understanding is the first and fundamental step forward toward a peaceful community of mankind, where every man will be free to live, to think, and to express himself, no matter what his beliefs. In this community the word and the fact competition will be replaced by the word and the fact cooperation. Every man is responsible for this day; and you and I are doubly so, because, through the dialogue we had this year, we, together with many others, have been building that day. I do not know when or how this hopeful day will come, but it will come—it is already coming—through us. We are part of it.

Thank you, good luck, and Felicitades,

NHS year sparkles with enthusiasm

A novel induction may be held responsible for the uniqueness of this year's National Honor Society chapter. In May of 1964 the juniors chosen received individual notes demanding their attendance in the auditorium for testing purposes. Once the testing began, members were expected to distinguish between bludgeons and snarks and to know the exact location of the Great Erg. Finally, when the new members began to appear haggard and worn, the established members charged from behind the curtain. This was the 1964 Honor Society initiation (the results of the tests were generously treated as a personal matter).

The induction set the pace for a year marked by far from ordinary activities. Informal get-togethers were held at Mrs. Gleason's and Anne Cohen's homes. A successful spring car wash was followed by a "wing-ding" at Carol January's farm. The high point of this barnyard fling was a wild and woolly pony (Bimbo January) who tested the horsemanship of all involved. A picnic at Judy MacDonald's for both seniors and new members ended the group's program. Despite frequent threats of impeachment, all members agree with D. Paulus that his administration was "fun-filled and frolicsome".

Active debaters travel to Georgetown

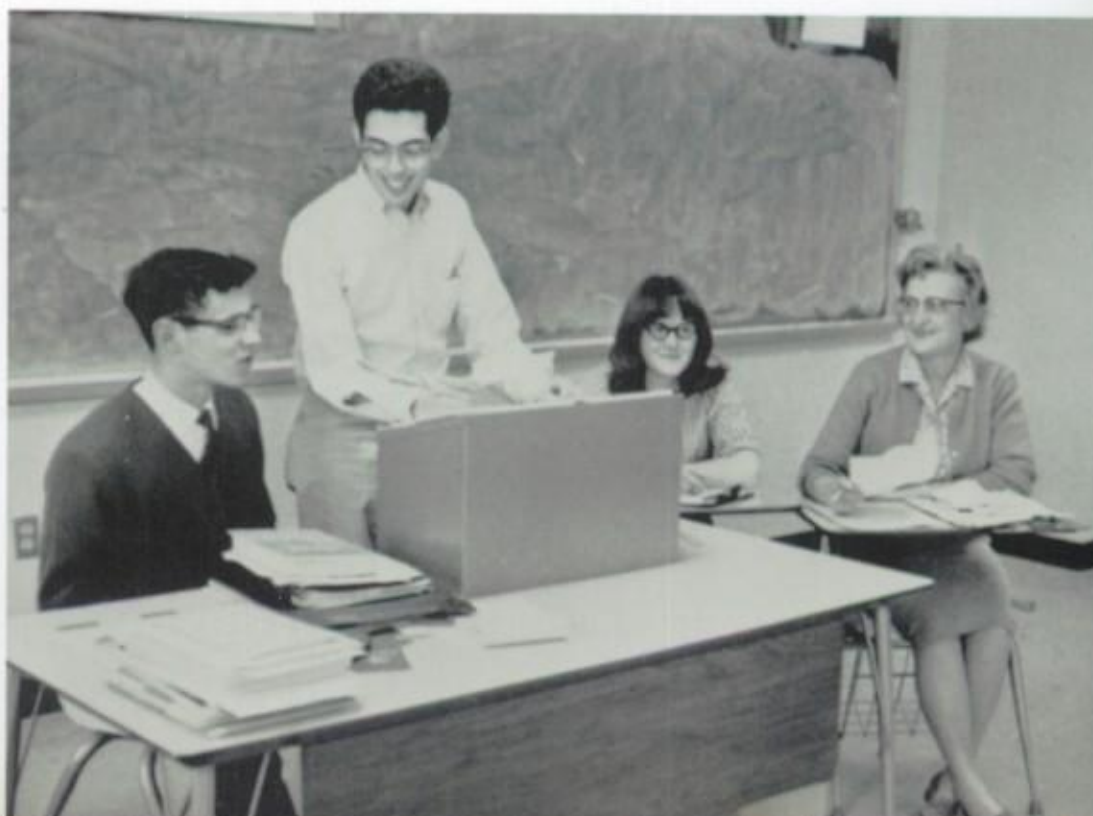

Whatever goes up must come down! Such was the motto for the 1964-65 Burlington High School Debate Club. The phenomenal success of recent years was followed by a year full of lesser successes, much experience, and FUN! The debaters, under the capable leadership of Miss Hutchins, won the Champlain Valley Tournament and placed second and third in many others.

One of the highlights of the year was the trip to Georgetown University in Washington, D. C. In addition, members of the team traveled all over Vermont. The core of the team was the masterful group consisting of Max Kahn, Bob Gordon, Saul Perlmutter and Bradley Gordon. Brad, a sophomore, hopes to lead next year's team to greater heights. Kathy Prior, Pam Hill, and Ilene Adler also took an active part in debate. Kathy DeBoer and Caroline Mullen were consistently outstanding in their respective speech events. Novices who give promise of a return to past glory are Karl Weinrich, Joel Walters, and Chuck Von Bruns.

“Undercurrent” wins state and New England awards

The Dramatics Club tasted sweet victory as the six-member cast of The Undercurrent, under the direction of Mrs. Marion Sargent, won district, regional, and state contests and proceeded to New England competition. Arnie Cohen, Cheryl Baskin, Candy Page, Carol Ransom, Ray Desorcie, and Debbie Frazier, the cast, scored their first win at the district competition held in Burlington. At the regionals in Vergennes, BHS was one of three schools chosen to attend the state meet in Rutland. Victory was complete on the state level as The Undercurrent won a trophy; and Arnie Cohen, Carol Ransom, Candy Page and Debbie Frazier were selected for the all-state cast. At the New England Festival, the play received a rating of “very good.” Ray Desorcie was named to the All-New England cast. The season was climaxed with the Dramatic Club banquet at which new Thespians were initiated and old Thespians received stars. Bruce Mangan obtained the coveted Honor Bar. Entertainment followed as the club members enjoyed “I Remember Ma Fisher.”

"Charley's Aunt" scores solid success

The first year at new BHS brought with it a late-starting but successful Drama Club. The major production, Brandon Thomas's "Charley's Aunt," took seven weeks of tiring rehearsals before the final performance on May 5. Although handicapped by lack of funds, a poor stage, an unfillable theater, and an almost completely inexperienced cast, Miss Margaret O'Brien, the director, pulled them all together into an unforgettable production.

What cast member will ever forget those late rehearsals, all the broken furniture, the show that was taped, the backstage riots, and the fluttering feeling in the pit of the stomach at the first low rumble of the gathering audience? The smiles, the chuckles, the hearty laughs caused by "Charley's Aunt" will long warm the memories of those who applauded loudly in the well-filled house.

"Laying the cloth for tea, sir," says Brassett (Bob Gilson) to Jack (Arnie Cohen).

"And you don't remember me?" inquires Donna Lucia (Pam Wetherbee) from Sir Francis (Craig Bigger), as Ela Delahay (Debbie Frazier) looks on with interest.

"Did you see anything strike that hat?" bellows Spettigue (Karl Weinrich) to Lord Fancourt Babberly (David Schein) disguised as Charley's aunt.

Donna Lucia amuses the "girls" with "a very funny story that Dom Pedro was fond of telling."

"Have you shown Miss Spettigue all around the garden?" asks Jack as he tries to get rid of Amy (Coleen Smith) and Charley (Andy Frazier) while Kitty (Jan Carter) listens with amusement.

FTA learns about Peace Corps jobs

This year the Future Teachers of America Club followed the axiom: "Quality, not quantity." Though the membership was somewhat small and meetings were few, whenever meetings were held, they were both interesting and profitable.

A large group of FTA members joined other chapters at the state convention in White River Junction. Here members learned about the opportunities for teaching in the Peace Corps.

At one meeting Flavio de Aguiar compared the educational systems of Brazil and the United States. Another meeting was held at the Waterman Building at UVM, where Dr. Betty Boller spoke on mathematics and several college students discussed university life. At the Christmas party in the cafeteria Mrs. Gratia Paterson, fifth grade teacher at Taft, was guest speaker. Speakers on other occasions were Mrs. Shortsleeves, junior high math teacher; Mrs. Claire Miller, of the guidance department; and Mrs. Edith O'Brien and her student teacher.

The year was a success mainly because of the guidance of the advisers, Mrs. Pettis and Mrs. Saunders, and the planning of the officers. The latter were Chris Ruffer, president; Donna Simpson, vice-president; Andi Stokes, secretary; and Diane Gorman, treasurer.

Future Nurses hold instructive meetings

The most important meeting of the year for the Future Nurses was a gala holiday party at Mrs. O'Brien's before Christmas. Planned to be three meetings in one, it featured talks by three BHS alumnae, Anne Remillard, Bonnie Lincoln, and Karen Hoffman, on the Mary Fletcher School of Nursing, UVM, and the X-ray technician course respectively, and also by a student nurse from Jeanne Mance. The question and answer period which continued throughout the refreshment hour was punctuated with bursts of laughter at the humorous situations and faux pas encountered in training.

At another meeting, members heard Miss Betty Jones describe a typical day as a public health nurse. Mrs. O'Brien attended a special meeting at the DeGoesbriand and later reported to the club what she had learned there of the new Nurses' Education Act and prospects for getting scholarships and financial aid. The FTA food booth at the June Carnival was the final activity of the year. The year's officers were Mary Caccavo, president; Peggy Coon, vice-president; Carol Sargent, secretary; Judy Paulus and Michelle LeBlanc, corresponding secretaries; and Ann Boynton, treasurer. Mrs. O'Brien was the faculty adviser.

Members of the Library Council discuss ways to increase the number of books available to the students.

Library Council helps fill empty shelves

The Burlington High School Library Council is a small but active group. The leaders of the council are Dave Anglin, chairman; Donna Simpson, vice-chairman; and Anne Thornhill, secretary-treasurer.

At the beginning of the school year the library workers sponsored an open house at which the guides obviously displayed the bare shelves. To provide enough money for the library to buy a book every two weeks, the publicity committee, headed by Elliot Greenblott, sold the New York Times to interested teachers and students.

The purpose of the council is to offer more efficient library service. This, in turn, will make the students ever more proud of their school and of their library!

Science Club Officers: Chuck Marshall, secretary; Dan Bishop, treasurer; Wendy Chaffee, vice-president; Andy Frazier, president.

Lectures stimulate future scientists

The BHS Science Club, a newly revived organization, set itself the objective of helping students receive the full benefit of the new scientific materials and facilities, and also of taking advantage of their proximity to the science specialists at U.V.M. Dr. Spröston spoke on mycology; Dr. Taylor, on the evolution of plants; Dr. Potash, on Lake Champlain; Dr. Vogelman on scientific expeditions to the Ecuadorian rain forests; and Dr. Gregg, chemistry. Dr. Bell and Mr. Jennings held a panel discussion on evolution. The officers, along with Dr. Chiavaralle and other members of the science department, organized and presided over the meetings.

Computer Club attracts mathematicians

For those interested in learning Gotran, Fortran, S.P.S. and other peculiar sounding subjects, Mr. Trono this year started the Computer Club. During the year, the club took trips to I.B.M., G.E., and the analogue and the digital computers at U.V.M. as well as the data processing room of the administration building. Each week there were meetings. These gradually gave way to more trips, films, and private discussions with Mr. Trono—often to discern the cause of the too-frequent check-stops.

Radio Club gets emergency transceivers

The Radio Club, of which Mr. Hook is the adviser, has benefited from the new facilities and increased equipment, which include portable 2-meter transceivers for emergency communication. Members transmit messages using the call letter K1NZU, which is issued by the Federal Communications Commission of Washington, D. C.

Members are required to learn the Morse Code at five words per minute before applying for an amateur license. The club hopes to get an emergency power supply in the near future. Officers for the year are Kenneth Kochan, president; Donald Martin, vice-president; Richard LaTour, secretary-treasurer.

In the fall of 1964 Burlington High School students formed Vermont's first Auto Safety Club. Advisers to the club are Mr. Tabor and Mr. Stanley. The aims of the club, "to teach students better use of cars and to try to keep them informed of any changes in traffic laws," have been emphasized by guest speakers and safety demonstrations.

Member of BHS club is DECA state president

This spring the Distributive Education Club of Burlington High School again attended the state convention in Barre. Members entered many contests in spelling, speech, and salesmanship and won the following prizes: first prize, radio script, Leah Ploof; first prize, demonstration sales, Mike Cromie; first place, DECA cashier, Joanne Provost; third prizes, advertising, Mike Wentworth; cashier, Nancy Denton; demonstration sale, Ed Barewicz; merchandise manual, Ray Desorcie.

During the year the BHS club had many guest speakers and saw training movies. The bookstore was also managed by DECA members.

Through DECA, members learn to become leaders and to accept responsibilities of citizenship in a competitive free enterprise system.

The officers were Gibson Cunningham, president; Raymond Desorcie, vice-president; Leah Ploof, secretary; and Anne Boynton, treasurer. Michael Cromie was state president for the year and attended the national convention in Chicago.

Rooters and Boosters promote school spirit

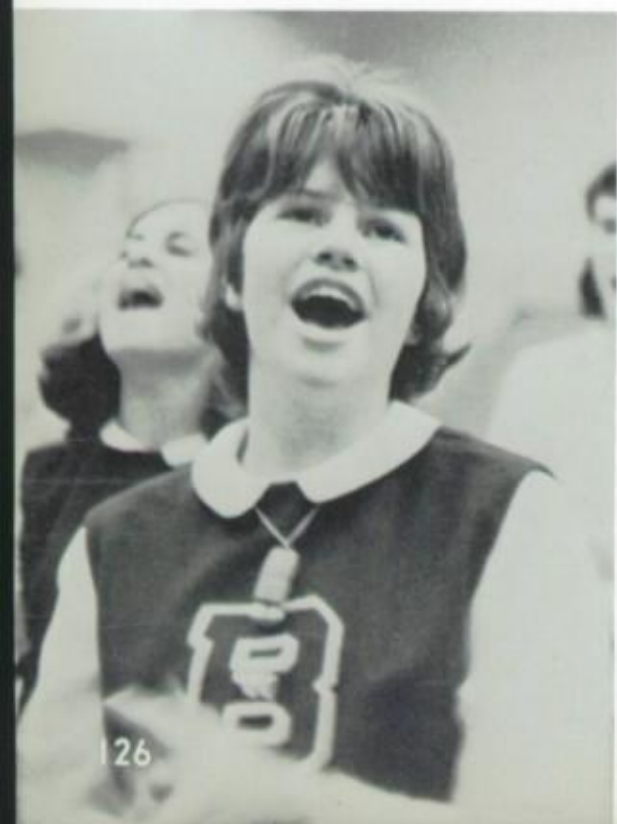

Remarks of Booster, Prof. Lewis, win approval of Mr. Smith.

Two new organizations were formed this year—one of students, the other of parents. Both worked toward the same goal—greater school spirit. Organized by athletes, cheerleaders, and other interested students, the Rooters staged pep rallies before the major games with traditional rivals, displayed posters to encourage attendance at games, and worked to engender pride in all school activities. Mr. LeCours was the adviser of the group.

The Boosters, a group of interested adults, got up tailgate picnics, arranged transportation to out-of-town contests, and sponsored post-season banquets to honor the coaches and teams.

Both the Boosters and the Rooters have done much to increase the already high BHS spirit.

Glee Club introduces new alma mater at Dedication

This year the Glee Club had a novel and important charge: to perform at the dedication of the new Burlington High School. This they did with the quality and the professional delivery that has come to be expected of them. To the resounding applause of the audience of two thousand, they introduced the new school alma mater with words by the class of 1965 and original music by Mr. Virgilio Mori.

The Glee Club presented three public concerts in addition to the dedication: the Christmas, the spring, and the all-city concerts. They also performed at a school assembly in December. Their repertoire was varied and lively and included classical selections from Handel's Messiah and Brahms's Requiem and popular numbers from Hello, Dolly and Oliver.

Under the able direction of Mr. Kelley the Glee Club has continued to show great improvement.

Mr. Kelley directs the combined Glee Club and Chorus in spirited performance of "Good King Wenceslas."

BHS orchestra performs at Trapp Family Festival

The BHS Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Ronald Mori, proved, with their skillful renditions of such selections as Toccata and Victory at Sea, that they had reached a new peak of excellence. The quality of the brass, woodwind, and percussion were tested with the annual Christmas concert—and passed with honors, delighting the audience with Sleigh-ride. The evening was highlighted by Greensleeves with strings, two flutes, and harp and by the combined orchestra and chorus rendition of the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's Messiah.

Because they were busy early in the year with plans for the hootenanny and Christmas Ball and rehearsals for the spring and Christmas concerts, the orchestra found no time for exchange trips. The musicians wrapped up a highly successful season with a performance at Stowe in August for the Trapp Family Festival.

Mr. Mori reassures orchestra before their next selection.

Chorus presents Christmas program on WCAX-TV

The mixed chorus, a select musical group, under the capable direction of Mr. Roy Kelley, found 1964-65 a unique musical experience. During the course of the year, members had the opportunity to improve their individual choral skills, while improving their stature as a group—achieving co-ordination and harmony. The expanded musical facilities of the new Burlington High School, including new music and enlarged practice rooms, allowed great flexibility in chorus activities. A wide range of musical selections such as “He Watching over Israel,” “Carol of the Bells,” “Hello, Dolly!” and selections from Oliver were studied and sung.

The highlights of the year were the spring and Christmas concerts as well as a special holiday concert presented on WCAX-TV. The BHS music department also participated in the State and New England Music Festivals with many members of the mixed chorus making the All-State and All-New England Chorus.

This year’s mixed chorus owes much of its outstanding success to expanded facilities; but it was Mr. Kelley, with his ever-present encouragement and talented direction, who made chorus interesting and enjoyable to all. BHS can take great pride both in Mr. Kelley and in the mixed chorus, for they upheld the traditional standards of excellence characteristic of all BHS musical endeavors.

Twirlers perform for Johnson and Goldwater

A chill of excitement swept over the twirlers as they strutted out to twirl before the biggest crowd ever to be entertained by any BHS twirlers—the airport crowd for the appearance of Presidential Candidate Lyndon B. Johnson. Just the week before they had had an equally thrilling experience at the rally for Senator Barry Goldwater. These two appearances marked the beginning of a lively year. A snappy new double-baton routine . . . Music Festival parade . . . a huge banner—"Seahorses Drown Rice" . . . football games . . . Patrick Gym . . . basketball tournament . . . sparkling double-lighted batons . . . lively pep rallies . . . an exciting exchange concert with Deering High—these were the ingredients of a terrific season.

The girls who displayed all this pep and ingenuity practiced together every morning, outside the school or in the gym. They created many new routines and ideas which aroused enthusiasm in all the crowds who witnessed them.

Accelerandos and crescendos characterize Band's year

The spacious practice rooms and rehearsal halls of the music department are a marked improvement over the old quarters at the Edmunds' annex, and the environment has induced more band members to become better musicians.

With the arrival of a new school year the band began to prepare for another active season. During the fall it increased the new BHS spirit by performing at each pep rally and nearly every football game, both at home and away. At the Rice game the band put on an impressive half-time show. It was also on hand to play for several parades, concerts, and appearances of both presidential candidates.

In April, hoping to raise enough money to purchase new uniforms and instruments, the Band Parents' Club sponsored a concert by the United States Navy Band.

Nineteen members played in the State Music Festival in May. Anne Cohen represented the band at the All-Eastern Festival (although she actually played in the All-Eastern Orchestra).

The year was highlighted by an exchange concert with Deering High School from Portland, Maine.

In all, the band had an amazing total of forty appearances—a very busy year!

Native costumes, bermuda shorts highlight AFS Week

AFS week, 1964, began with a bang Saturday night at a gala AFS hootenanny and dance, with local entertainers leading the audience in favorite folk songs.

Tuesday the sophomores had an opportunity to sign up for AFS Club, the first step towards becoming an American Field Service exchange student. That same day the halls of old Edmunds took on a foreign air with Oriental gowns, wooden shoes, and even a serenading Spaniard—a strange internationally flavored group for Native Costumes Day. Lunch hour in the cafeteria that day was enlivened by a German band, games at all the tables, and pizza as prizes for the winners.

Following tradition, Thursday was Bermuda Shorts Day. Although as usual the weather was uncooperative, the day was a great success.

An AFS assembly and a tea after school at Candy Page's climaxed the week, with several exchange students from all over the state attending both activities.

All in all, it was a mad week, filled with fun and festivity.

“Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme” – un succès fou

As the audience begins to gather, nervous actors backstage stumble mechanically through well-rehearsed lines, realizing that if they forget the words, they can't possibly ad lib Molière. All are a little envious of Jean-Pierre: all he has to think of is recalling words while they have to remember accent, pronunciation, and inflection. In the wings Madame Fontaine and Monsieur Lascoumes whisper last minute words of advice and encouragement. The preliminary songs and dramatic poem are well received by a large audience of parents, students, and many of the local French community. Then . . . the curtain rises and the show is on! A bit slow in starting, the tempo increases with each scene . . . the dancing lesson . . . the duel . . . Racusen's hilariously off-key song . . . Jean-Pierre's untuneful song with “a sheep in it” . . . Harvey's masterful scene teaching “le bourgeois” phonetics . . . the lovers' quarrel . . . the dashing Dorante and haughty Dorimène . . . the arrival of the “Turcs” . . . the real acting of the Mamamouchi. With the climax and the final curtain, the audience is applauding enthusiastically. The cast beams in the knowledge that they have made the immortal comedy of Molière come alive and have had a marvelous time doing it. It will be a long time before they forget their experience, and they will never forget how Jean-Pierre really made Monsieur Jourdain live at BHS.

Unusual speeches entertain feasting juniors

The class of 1965 held its Junior Class Banquet on May 28, 1964, at the Hotel Vermont. The wait to enter the dining room seemed endless, but all agreed that it was well worth it.

The dinner was followed by an hilarious welcome by the junior class president, John Powell, and by his well remembered class gift to Ray Darling—a "Colt 45" pistol.

point of view) and B. A. Cunningham's to boys' sports (as a girl sees them) were enjoyed by everyone who had ever participated as either player or spectator in the Edmund's High athletic program. In response to Chris Ruffer's PTA speech, Professor Bassett "sang for his supper." Arnold Cohen's toast to the girls and Debbie Frazier's to the boys were especially interesting to those members of the class frequenting Crescent Beach.

The talent of the class of '65 was displayed by the "beat" combo of Steve Hayton, Bill Stone, and Tom French; the folk songs of Debbie Frazier; and the unexpected treat of Juanita Porneles' Hawaiian songs.

The evening concluded with a speech by Mr. Smith. The banquet was over.

BHSers don't count calories

It's not really that Burlington students are hungrier than others. They just seem so. With the appearance of the first spring robin, every club tries to think of a new excuse for eating. Nineteen sixty-four was typical. There were banquets of the Latin Club, the Business Department, the Dramatics Club, and the classes; picnics of the National Honor Society, Twirlers, Spanish Club, and Thespians. The Cheerleaders were at the Dog Team; All-Sports, at Cliffside—but, no matter where, everyone was eating!

Human scarecrows greet Rag Day

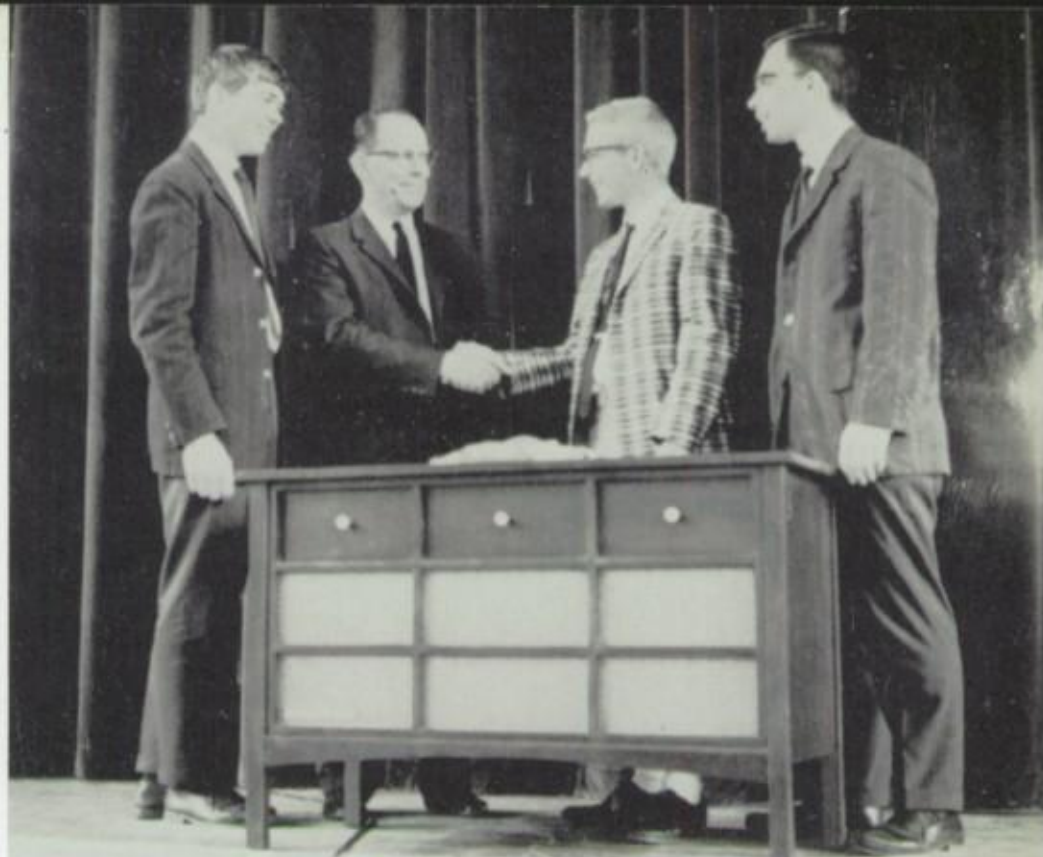

Rag Day 1964 held the usual element of waggish hilarity as seniors rose to the occasion in their worst attire. Following the general motif of hoboism, seniors sported shoeless feet and hole-y vestments to class as underclassmen smiled enviously. Realizing the fate of all good Cinderellas, however, the seniors made the best of their raggedness; for they knew the next day would bring the classic transformation from rags to the stylish perfection of dress-up day.

Edmunds has last Awards Assembly

The 1964 Awards Assembly held an element of uniqueness, for it was the last awards assembly to be held at Edmunds High School. The usual air of excitement filled the auditorium as achievement awards were given out in music, poetry, math, business, languages, and sports. The Harvard Award went to Max Kahn, and Thomas Duprey received the Orrie Jay Award. Following tradition, Bill Brooks turned over his president's gavel to 1965 Student Council President Michael Kelley.

Having listened to the Oread editors' reading of the dedication of the 1964 yearbook to Principal Holland Smith, the student body rose to its feet in a spontaneous and affectionate ovation. Then, with the presentation of the student gift to Mr. Smith, Awards Assembly came to a close. Much more than the traditional final assembly, it was a farewell to the graduating class, Mr. Smith, and Edmunds.

Smooth sophistication marks '64 banquet

On a warm June evening in 1964 a group of exuberant seniors gathered at the Hotel Vermont to celebrate the conclusion of a long, full year and to mark the end of their undergraduate days—"Out of School Life into Life's School!"

The seniors were regaled by distinguished speakers, both faculty and students. Preceding this, however, they feasted on London broil smothered in mushrooms. Then the audience plunged into postprandial fun and games.

The general theme seemed to be to "Get the Guests!" Various speakers lampooned the school board, the faculty, boys, girls, and other members of society. Following their barbed shafts, spokesmen for the recipients rose to deny everything.

In addition to socially pregnant satire the assemblage was entertained with a display of the considerable musical talent of the class and listened to the farewell remarks of foreign exchange students, Juan and Tuula, soon to return home after a year at BHS.

Finally, flushed and triumphant, the class departed to resume festivities in more felicitous settings. Ave atque vale, O, class of '64!

That was the year—'64!

Every new crop of seniors marks its graduation by certain colorful ceremonial rites—some private and shrouded in mystery, others open to and enjoyed by the public. Of the latter, one of the most eagerly anticipated is always Class Night.

As a showcase for its talent the versatile class of '64 chose as its theme, "That Was the Year That Was." Nearly one half of the more than a score of acts showed the musical genius of this exceptional class. These ranged from Julie Wallman and Sarah Kennedy's recorder duet, Cheryl Baskin's cello solo, and a smooth dance combo to Warren Rothberg's bohemian folk songs.

Humor shared the spotlight with music as the inimitable Bill Butler did another of his popular and hilarious interpretations. In retribution for classes, grades, and other past indignities, the class satirized the faculty in several biting skits. The infamous dancing chorus of '64, in its final public performance, brought down the house with a most unusual can-can.

Coach Beck, speaking for the faculty, gave a few words of advice, after which Bill Brooks and Diane Palin unrolled a class prophecy full of surprises. With a spirited finale by the entire cast, another "year that was" passed into history.

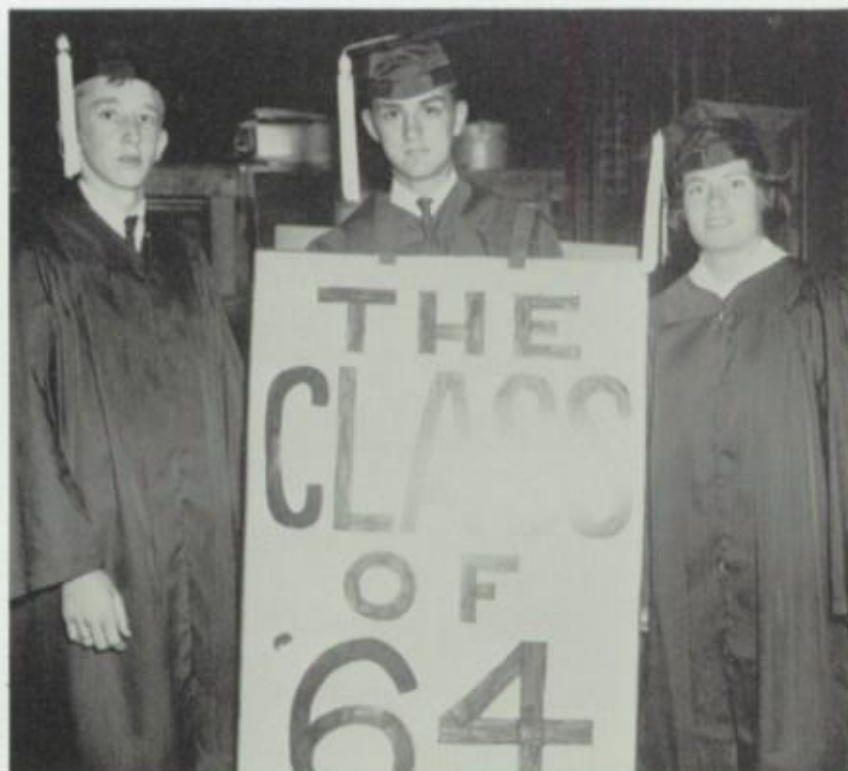

Dana Hutchins, Dave Morton, Fred Fuller, and Skip Stahl's jazz arrangements set feet to tapping.

Seniors eagerly await commencement

Graduation morning dawned with typical Edmunds' commencement weather—bright and sunny—as the class of 1964 gathered in Memorial Auditorium for the climax of their four years of fun and hard work. Superintendent Logan addressed the seniors briefly before awarding the long-anticipated diplomas, praised them for having been an outstanding class in many ways, and cited the many vocational, artistic, musical, and academic awards the members had accumulated. He urged them to use their many talents to help solve the many problems facing the world. After Mr. Logan awarded the diplomas, Principal Holland Smith presented the many prizes.

Girls' State increases Edmunds' delegation

June 14 seven girls arrived at Green Mountain Girls' State, ready for the excitement of the week to come. These delegates, Deborah Clayton, Harriet Bloomberg, B. A. Cunningham, Eleanor Hobbs, Carol January, Andi Midworth, and Candy Page, mingling quickly with the girls of their towns and counties, made many lasting friendships.

As the week progressed, the girls became familiar with the procedures of state and local governments. During this one short week a complete election in miniature was held. As well as having party caucuses, town meetings, and legislative sessions, the citizens of Girls' State carried on heated campaigns in support of their own parties.

BHS was well represented in these campaigns. Candy ran for governor; Harriet, for lieutenant governor; Andi, for state treasurer; and Eleanor, for attorney general. All were defeated after a bitter struggle. Later, Eleanor, Carol, and B. A. were elected selectmen of their towns; Harriet, secretary of the Senate; B. A., party caucus chairman; Debbie, senator; and Candy, chief justice of the supreme court. Candy received the high honor of being nominated to Girls' Nation, and Andi won an award as best athlete of Girls' State.

Campaigns and speeches were not the only aspects of Girls' State. Pizza pajama parties, brag sessions, shopping sprees, nightly air raids were part of the fun. One afternoon was enlivened by the trial of a suit between two towns. The grand finale of the hectic week was a dance at Boys' State, where the delegates discussed politics and the exciting experiences of the week and danced gaily on each other's toes.

All that remained for Saturday morning were tearful good-byes. After a final flag ceremony the citizens left Girls' State with a greater knowledge of the workings of democratic government and many rewarding memories.

Max Kahn chosen Boys' Nation alternate

In June, 1964, fifteen Burlington boys, having been refused entrance at Vermont College, reluctantly took up residence at Norwich University for a week. The chagrined fifteen were actually Edmunds High's last delegation to Green Mountain Boys' State.

As soon as they had arrived, the Burlington delegates found themselves campaigning for various state, county and town offices. Although Max Kahn was the only BHSer elected to a high state office, the others found positions in the legislature and in county or town government.

During the week, the Burlington delegation contributed much to Boys' State activities—political, athletic, and otherwise (mostly otherwise).

The boys' attempts to establish an orderly, well-organized state government were not always successful. In an effort to sharpen up his town, moderator John Powell told his townsmen to maintain strict neatness and order. "If one window's broken, break the other one!" Powell said jokingly. Unfortunately, Senator Reed took his advice too seriously. Senator Paulus also had trouble with windows.

The Burlington delegation met often in Chief Justice Shaw's room to plan its brilliant legislation. Senator Paulus' bill to award points to traffic violators was a result of these sessions. Another product of the boys' coordinated planning was the inspection of the Norwich kitchen, conducted by a self-appointed State Board of Health. The findings of the board were quite revealing.

The most impressive accomplishment of the Edmunds' delegation was the election of Max Kahn as Secretary of State. Max was later named an alternate to Boys' Nation.

All the delegates benefited from the weeks' experience, and the fun that was had will not soon be forgotten.

2,000 attend Dedication and Open House

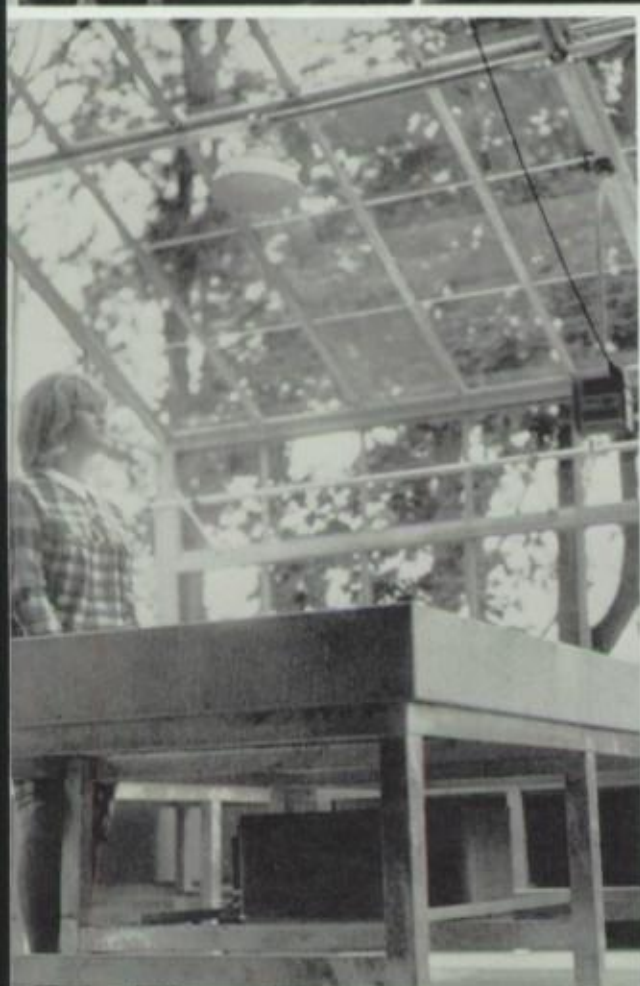

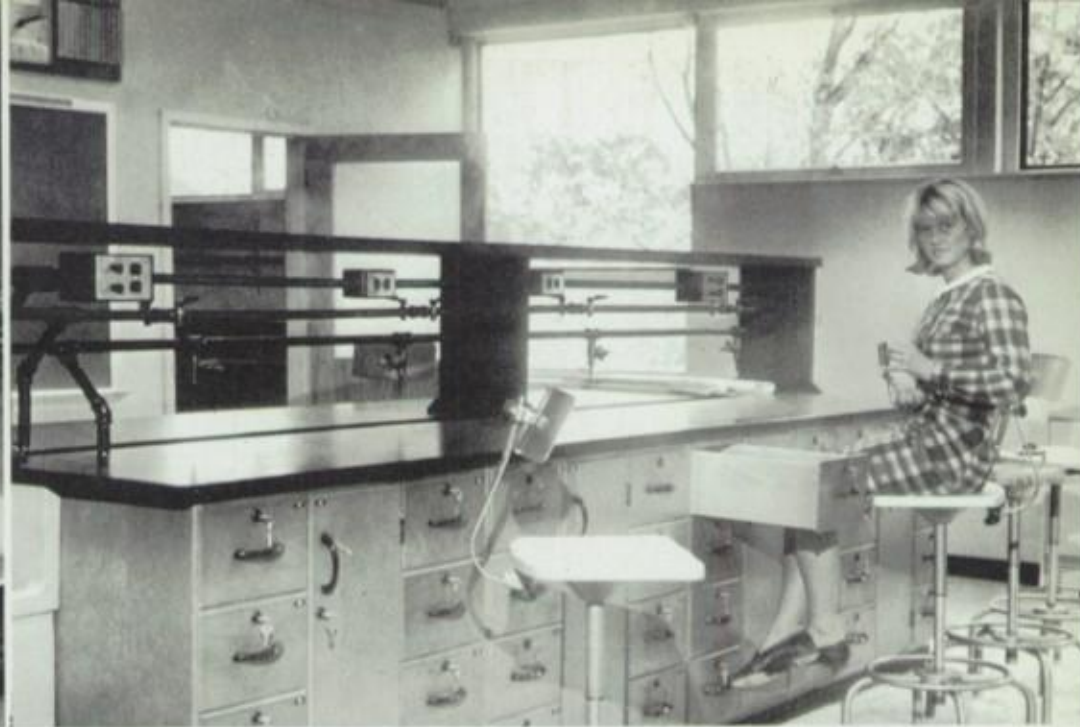

Crowd at dedication.

On October 25, a crowd of 800 attended the dedication of the new Burlington High School. Dr. Rupert Spencer, director of special services, Vermont Department of Education, said it was a quality building and with implementation of community support would be one of the finest of its kind in the country. Commissioner A. John Holden, Jr., called on the faculty and students to consider human values and relationships in a world where it is ever more difficult to find spiritual breathing space. Thunderous applause greeted Maine's Commissioner of Education, William A. Logan, superintendent of the Burlington schools at the time when the school was conceived, planned, and built. Deeply moved by the applause, his voice filled with emotion, he spoke briefly on the responsibility of a nation to educate its youth. Mr. Hayes, chairman of the School Board, accepted the building. Mr. Fay, speaking for the faculty, emphasized the importance of people, rather than bricks and mortar. Mike Kelley spoke for the students.

Following the dedication two thousand people toured the building, visiting the areas shown here in Free Press photographs made in the summer with Judy MacDonald as guide.

Booberator makes predictions at Junior-Senior Frolic

Many hours of planning and rehearsing, all in the utmost secrecy, preceded the annual Junior-Senior Frolic. Everywhere, usually quiet seniors could be found gathering props of abstract shapes and ideas from each other. The juniors waited in great anticipation for the chance to view the result.

Portia's party and an intimate look at the football team off on a school bus trip were only part of the fun. The Gypsy Booberator and his accomplice (featuring provocatively bedecked Saul Perlmutter and Max Kahn) gave some startling predictions to the disbelieving juniors. Mr. Marabella, in the person of Terry Shaw, hummed through a mock history class.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of achievement awards, made by gloating seniors to quaking juniors.

BHS presents Humanities Lecture Series

Sandy Blackstone and Tim Steele discuss Plato's philosophy with Professor Dykhuizen of U.V.M.

Professor Francis Weinrich discusses the madrigal.

In its first year, the new BHS has provided an important opportunity for cultural improvement: the Humanities Lecture Series. This series of lectures brought to the school speakers of diverse cultural fields: from theater and music to Greek philosophy and modern anthropology.

The theme of the series was the idea that mankind has arrived at an era in which the knowledge of man, his history, his capabilities and possibilities seem fundamental to his survival and fulfillment.

The series helped to acquaint interested students, teachers, and the general public with the advances being made in the humanities during a time when emphasis is being placed on science. Among the speakers who generously gave their time to share their learning with us were Dr. Charles Keller, nationally known for his work in the humanities; and Profs. Daniel Scheans, Samuel Bogorad, Paul Evans, and Francis Colburn of the University of Vermont.

Assemblies display talents

Assembly programs this year were geared to the interests of the students. Dr. Keller's lecture, "Schools Are for Students"; talks by Tazu, Belle and Flavio; the debate, "Control of Nuclear Weapons"; a talent assembly; a talk by Ann Landers; and finally the traditional awards assemblies proved very successful.

Assemblies added something extra to the routine of school life. Sometimes amusing and entertaining . . . sometimes intellectually broadening and informative . . . the assemblies this year were very worthwhile!

New spirit blends with holiday tradition

Christmas tree, decorated by Mrs. Bagley's Clerical II, greets students as they enter Building A.

Those who passed by old Edmunds daily in going to and from Institute Road would glance up at the gaily decorated windows and sigh nostalgically for past holiday seasons; since the pungent smell of paint, sawdust, and fresh concrete still seemed to pervade their new high school. In a new setting would Christmas be the same?

As the weeks before Christmas progressed with alarming swiftness, eager students watched carefully for the traditional signs of festivity. And they all appeared. In the large display windows and on bulletin boards in all the buildings, gay decorations, whether faculty or student arranged, were as bright as or brighter than they had seemed last year. One morning the lobby before the main office was bare; the next, any lingering trace of fresh paint odor was fiercely overcome by the spicy fragrance of a gaily decorated evergreen.

As in past years French and Spanish carols rang out beneath the tree. Christmas dinner in the cafeteria seemed more delicious than ever. Somehow, in the lovely setting of the new auditorium, the Christmas concert was more polished and more melodious; and the "Hallelujah Chorus" rang out more triumphantly.

Finally, with the advent of the Christmas Ball, its festive decorations, and candle-lit tables, the ghost of Christmases past was forever laid to rest. Holiday spirits had never been higher. The new BHS had passed the test of old traditions with flying colors!

All at once the air becomes hushed. Mike Kelley, Student Council president, steps to the microphone. The crowd strains forward to hear his announcement . . . as Prince Perry and Princess Priscilla emerge, smiling, to a loud burst of applause. They pose in the center of the floor while flash bulbs pop. Silence descends again as suspense mounts. Suddenly, eyes glowing happily, a couple walks regally out to join them. King John and Queen Andi stand engulfed by the applause of their court and friends. After still another flash of light the tide of dancers once again covers the floor.

As evening becomes morning, couples say their good-byes. The candles flicker . . . and go out. The floor is dark and empty . . . but the holiday season has just begun.

Sun smiles on AFS Week

A visitor to BHS late in May would have noticed many unusual sights. It was AFS Week and the differences were traditions transplanted from Edmunds to the new school. The major events got under way on Wednesday with Native Costumes Day. Flavio, in big boots and baggy Brazilian pants, and Tazu in her traditional kimono were joined by a Spanish beauty in lace mantilla, several Dutch girls, and an American Indian. Exotic and colorful costumes brightened the corridors. The next day BHS seemed more like a Florida beach as most of the student body and a couple of hardy male faculty members appeared in bermuda shorts.

On Friday the pace increased with the arrival of AFS'ers from all over Vermont. Having toured the school and visited classes, they spoke and sang at an assembly, describing schools and customs in Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Chile, and Brazil. The duets in German and the yodeling of a Swiss miss will long be remembered. One will not soon forget, either, "Blame It on the Bossa Nova," sung in four languages, nor the magic games at the tea in Fraziers' backyard. Ending the week, the foreign students came to see how Americans danced the "Freddy" and the "Surf"—then danced them themselves.

Year end brings banquets, teas

Although May 25, 1965, may go down in history as the night Cassius Clay defeated Sonny Liston in a 90-second encounter to retain the heavyweight title, the Class of '66 will remember it as the night of the Junior Banquet. Never-to-be-forgotten moments of that gay night will include M.C. Bill Cunningham's maid-butler joke . . . Tom's tribute to the Class of Sitsy-Sits . . . Lloyd's thanks to the "little woman behind it all" . . . Professor Colburn's cookie jokes and his adventures with Walter . . . Pianist Jeff's Exodus . . . dancing the Freddie with Doug and Peggy . . . and Dennis, taking bets on the Clay-Liston fight. All in all, it was an unbeatable banquet—truly worthy of the talent and originality of the Class of '66.

Not only the juniors, but nearly every club or organization ended its year with an event to satisfy the appetites of joyous members. The Latin Club held its Roman Banquet; the National Honor Society and AFS had teas; the Spanish Club enjoyed a picnic.

To his thanks Flavio added a fond farewell to all BHS students and the hope that he could say one day soon, "Smile! You're seeing Flavio again!" One of the last class activities, the banquet was pronounced by all a complete success.

Guest speaker, Mr. Richard Snelling, discusses with seniors their relationship with all the youth of the world—their problems, difficulties, challenges and enormous possibilities for future and advises them to be optimists.

Class Night spoofs "Big Brother"

The evening of June 21st, Class Night, having overcome all obstacles, became a reality—or rather, a spoof on reality—with the theme, "Big Brother is watching you!" The stage represented a huge TV screen on which school authorities could keep an eye on the whole school. Skits included take-offs on the cafeteria, Flavio's first impressions of BHS and vice versa, intercom announcements, and organized hysteria in the Activity Room. A flute duet, accordion and cello solos, and vocal numbers showed the fine talents of a gifted, but fun-loving, class.

Happy Connie Cochones wins Effie Moore Award for greatest progress.

All the traditional ingredients of an Edmunds commencement had been transferred from the old school to the new—bright sunshine, blue skies, proud friends and relatives, happy graduates, sheaves of flowers; but something entirely new had been added—a gigantic traffic jam! An unbroken stream of cars stretched from Battery Park to Institute Road. Band members and graduates, clutching instruments or caps and gowns, jumped out of the cars and rushed on foot to the gym. Nearly half an hour late, the main speaker, Supt. William Keough, finally managed to get through the traffic.

In his speech to the class Mr. Keough advised the graduates to maintain their private selves. "Let every decision be yours alone. The responsibility for inaction is yours; so think, gather the facts, and make decisions based on those facts," he counseled.

Howard Education Prizes — to top three students in college preparatory course for four years, Merrill Epstein, Max Kahn and Sheila Crosby.

University of Vermont Honor Scholarships — to highest ranking boy and girl, Merrill Epstein and Sheila Crosby.

Rev. E. J. Fitzsimons, Principal Glenn Fay, and Superintendent William Keough, Jr. listen attentively to President Allan Hunt's address of welcome.

Sophomore girls assisting at the refreshment table are Marcia Conner, Jane Sarno, Paula Lapidow, Nancy McDonald, Dallas Milligan, and Debbie Stone.

Graduation whirl ends on the "Carrousel"

It was a night to remember. Gaily colored, prancing horses seemed to go 'round and 'round in the middle of the floor. Bright balloons bobbed above spotless white tables. Other helium-filled balloons floated airily amidst the kaleidoscopic streamers which had transformed the Edmunds auditorium into one huge carnival tent.

A warm summer evening smiled down upon beautiful girls in long evening gowns . . . on their handsome escorts in immaculate white dinner jackets . . . on fragrant flowers in corsages and decorations. The magical merriment began as sophomore boys opened car doors for the couples to alight . . . increased as a carnival barker in straw sailor and striped jacket greeted them at the entrance . . . exploded into ohs and ahs of delight at the first glimpse of the gay setting.

As Rogers' Quintet alternated the latest hits with old favorites, the dancers happily whirled away the exciting hours which were bringing to a delightful close the merry-go-round of another year . . . a night to remember, yes . . . and a year to remember!

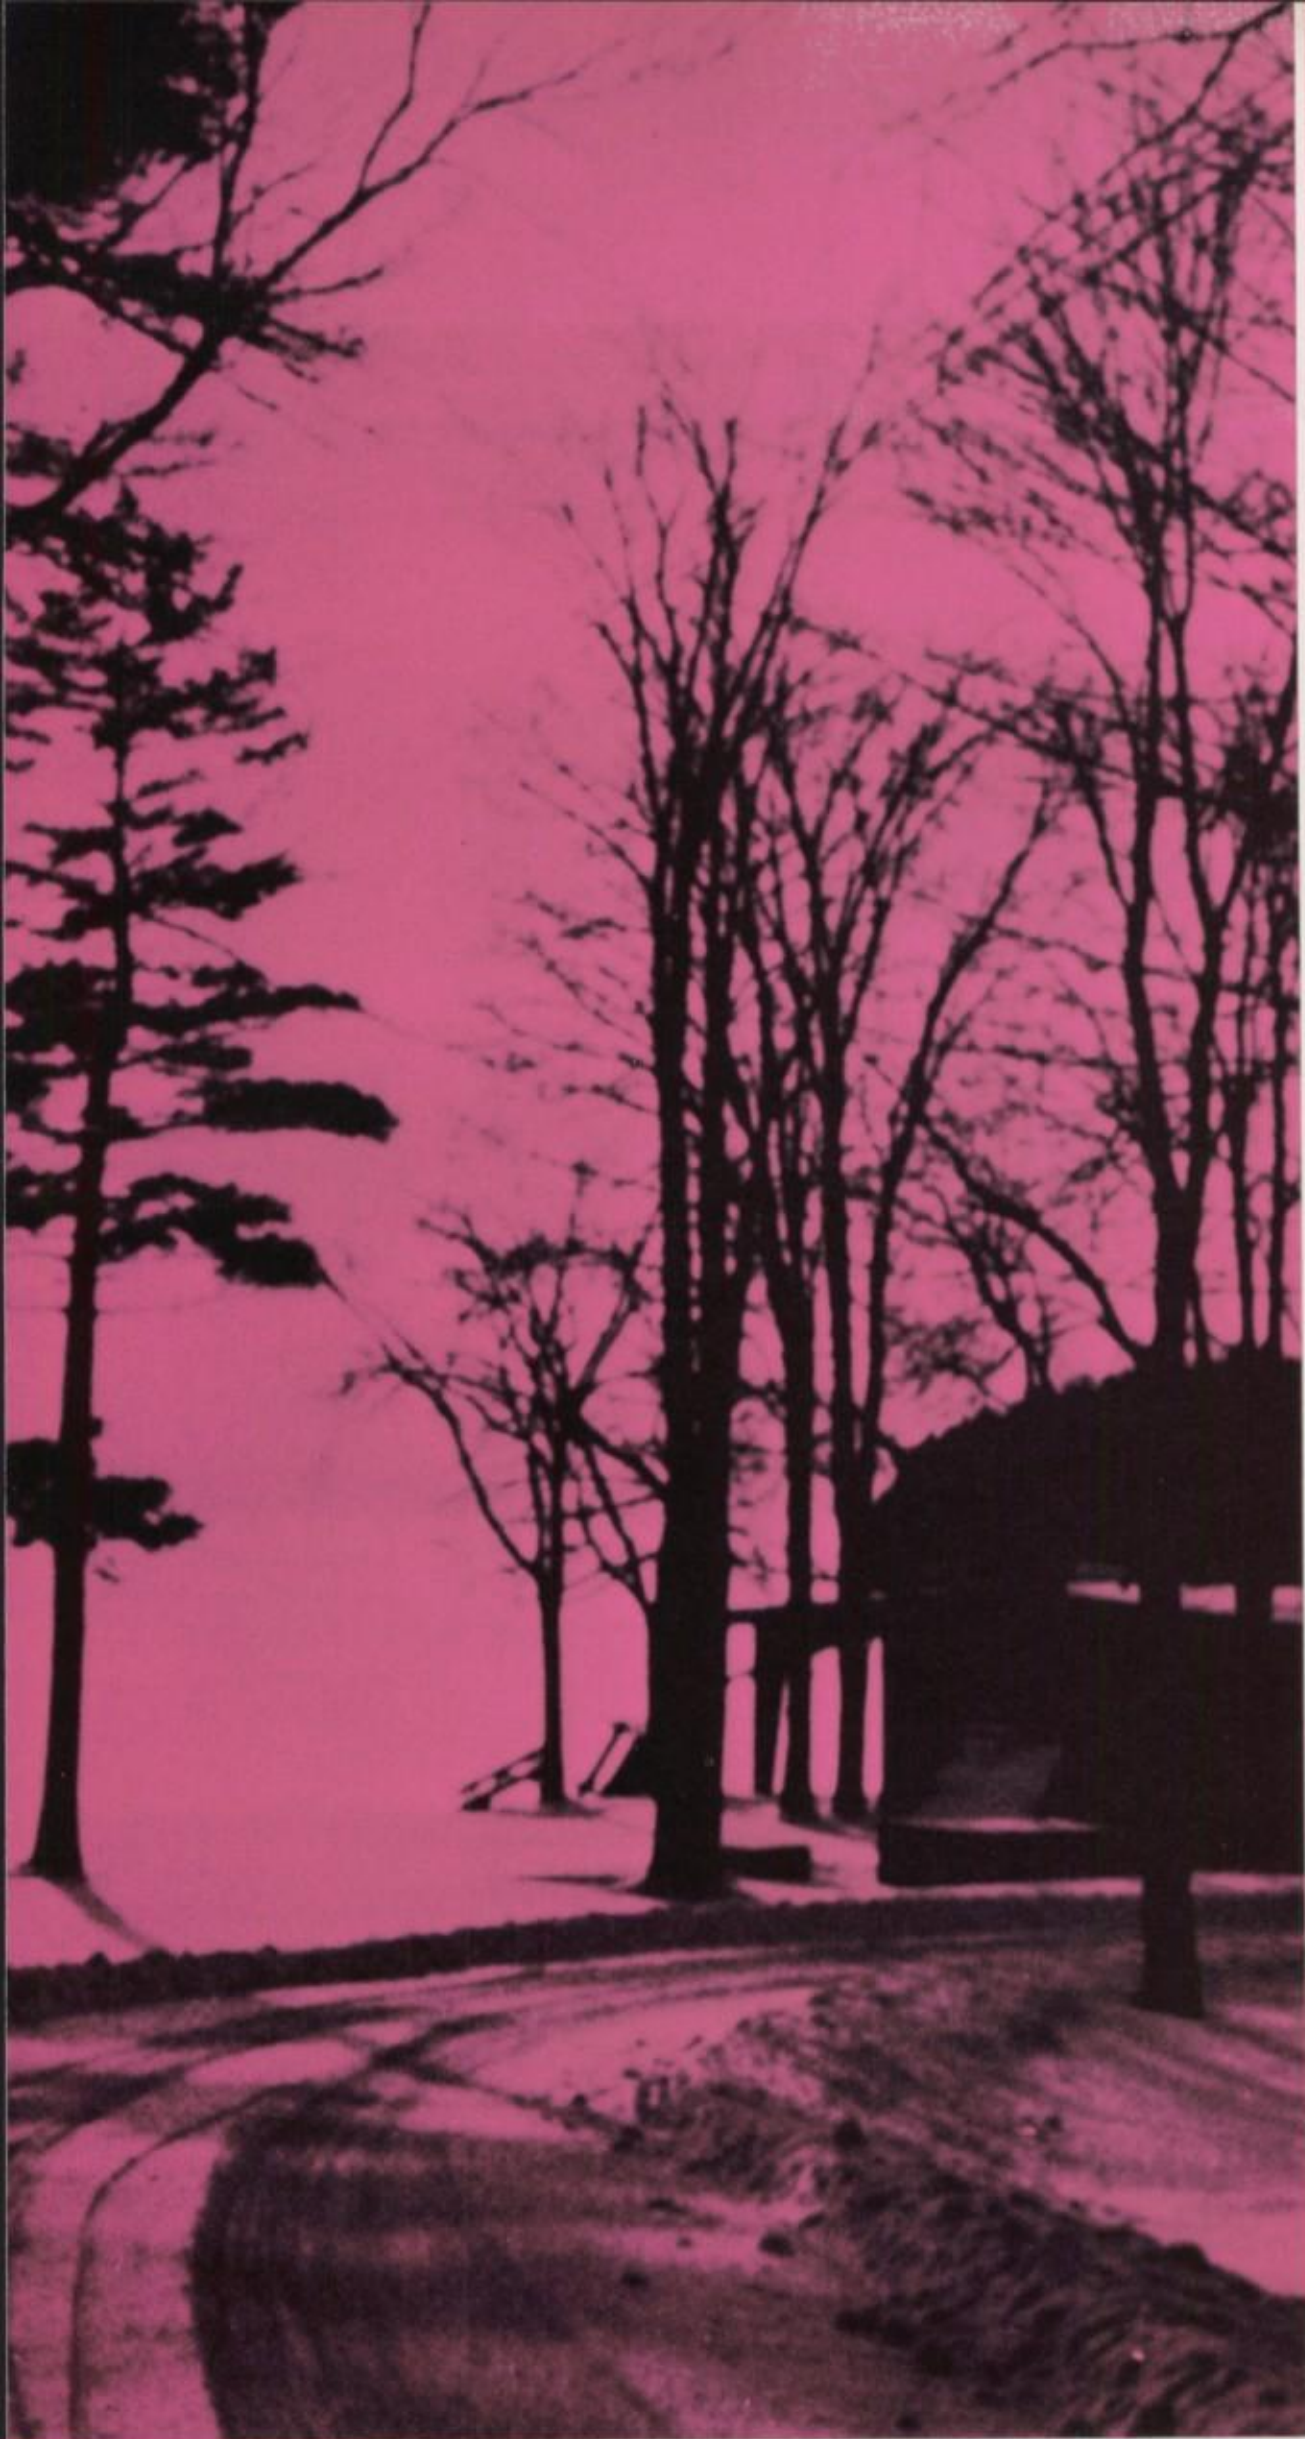

Couples dance merrily 'round carrousel!

"On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined!"

A winter beach—
A glimpse half-caught
Through leafless trees
From upper classrooms—
The dormant heartbeat
Of adolescents'
Summer.
Cold winter's sun
Reflecting off
Bleak barrenness
Speaks
Of activity to come . . .
Activity requiring
The tools of
Forward-looking men
And industry—
The outgrowth
And the outward reach
For better things—
Made possible
Through advertising.

AS A SAVINGS BANK . . . the Burlington Savings Bank serves primarily as a source for funds to help people along the road to home ownership.

AS A MUTUAL SAVINGS BANK . . . the Burlington Savings Bank has no stockholders. Therefore all profits, after expenses and reserve provisions, are distributed to depositors as interest. Since its incorporation in 1847 this bank has always sought to pay the highest rate of interest consistent with absolute safety and sound banking principles.

Museum Entrance

Through the school, pupils obtain a basic understanding of the world in which they live and then may continue to live in it.

Education in a museum first teaches us how others of the past lived, and from their experiences we are better able today to understand our environment and our relation to it.

Schools and museums therefore have much in common in education and in the portrayal of history. Here at the Museum, much can be learned about the future from a serious study of the past. May each student receive the best education and a clear understanding of our history.

In Appreciation

We, the OREAD board and staff, wish to express our sincere appreciation to the parents, faculty, and administration who have helped immensely throughout the year. To the advertisers who have helped make this book a reality, we extend a very sincere thank-you, and we hope that all students will patronize these businesses and will mention OREAD advertisements. We also thank Mr. Carr, our official photographer; our student photographers; and most especially the Burlington Free Press for the excellent pictorial representation of our school year.

Special thanks go to Mrs. Lyrace Fontaine, our dedicated adviser, whose inspiration, hard work, and unselfish efforts contributed immensely to compiling the 1965 OREAD.
